SOLEMN OCCASION FOR SOVEREIGN

ROSEBERY WRITES ON THE CORONATION

Special Services Will Be Held Throughout Land — Transforming the Metropolis

London, June 16.—Lord Rosebery touches the key-note of the coronation ceremony as the King and Queen themselves see it. He says in a letter published to-day:

"The coronation is a Christian ceremony at which the empire renews its vows and receives consecration in the person of its sovereign. We must all remember that while we celebrate with festal joy, it is the most solemn event of the reign."

There is good reason for saying it is this deeply religious aspect of what is officially called the solemnity of the coronation which predominates in the minds of King George and Queen Mary, as it did in the minds of Queen Victoria and King Edward. In accordance with their desire, expressed through the archbishop of Canterbury, every parish church throughout England will hold a solemn service on coronation day with special prayers for the divine guidance of the sovereigns in their public and private life. The rest of the day will be devoted to the old English merrymaking. Even the smallest and sleepiest village has raised its special fund for fetes with free cakes.

All London is now awaiting the gorgeous spectacle of the coronation. The present aspect of the town is rather topsy-turvy, but a day or two more of work on the decorations is expected to transform everything. As rapidly as the huge grandstands are completed they are brightly draped and beflagged. Most of the private decorations, especially the costly and elaborate set pieces, have been covered with waterproof cloth to protect them from the rain.

Every day this week has seen crowds traversing the routes of the processions to view the decorations. In Trafalgar square and in some of the thoroughfares leading from that point the congestion was so great to-day that the omnibuses sometimes found it impossible to proceed.

It does not take a very observant eye to detect the fact that visitors from Canada are more numerous in London to-day than ever before. Parties from Montreal, Toronto, Halifax, Ottawa and from Winnipeg, Vancouver, Victoria and other cities of the west are to be found registered at nearly every hotel. From Saturday the parliamentary visitors, nearly all of whom are accompanied by their wives and families, become the guests of the nation, and during the ensuing three weeks they will be entertained as such. The formal luncheon of welcome will take place in Westminster Hall on Monday.

The police are taking the most elaborate precautions to prevent panics or other catastrophes on the days of the big parades. The possibility of fire in some of the mammoth grandstands along the route has been given the utmost consideration. Almost everywhere are hand grenades, while fire extinguishers are freely distributed about.

The entire route of the procession will be lined with soldiers. The usual calculation for lining streets with soldiers is ten thousand troops per mile, but this is only for a single rank on each side of the street, and the figures have to be modified where, as in the present case, there are many points of the route of which double ranks are necessary, and others where considerable bodies of troops must be massed. It is probable that 60,000 soldiers of all ranks will be required for this purpose.

ACCUSED OF USING MAILS TO DEFRAUD

New York Man Arrested at Toronto — Police Searching for His Partner

Toronto, Ont., June 16.—Robt. Barrett, of New York, is under arrest here to-day on a charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. Operating under the name of the Mutual Brokerage Company, it is alleged that Barrett and a partner purported to sell stocks and bonds on the installment plan, and although a large amount of stock had been paid for, according to the police, none had been delivered. The police are searching for Barrett's partner, Alfred Bingham.

TWENTY-FIVE PERSONS PERISH.

Trieste, Austria, June 16.—The reports emanating from Vienna of fatalities here resulting from the recent hurricane were greatly exaggerated. So far as known not more than 25 lives were lost in this vicinity.

CHINESE LOAN.

Heavily Oversubscribed in Both London and Berlin.

London, June 16.—Subscriptions to the British portion of the $30,000,000 Hukuang railway loan to China were opened to-day and immediately closed, having been largely oversubscribed. The issue was quoted at a premium of one per cent.

Berlin, June 16.—Subscriptions to the Hukuang loan to China closed at once after being opened to-day, having been heavily oversubscribed.

The Hukuang loan of $30,000,000 for railroad construction in central China was made by groups of financiers representing Great Britain, the United States, France and Germany. Provincial opposition to the loan delayed its conclusion for a year after its terms had been agreed upon between the government of China and the international bankers.

INVESTIGATING WRECK.

San Francisco, Cal., June 16.—An investigation of the loss of the Pacific Mail steamer Asia, which was wrecked on Finger Rock, on the southern coast of China, April 23 last, was begun to-day by British Consul-General R. Hearn, assisted by Capts. McKenzie and Howe, of the British steamers Strathberg and Hornby Castle, respectively.

The inquiry is being conducted by the British authorities, as the Asia was under British registry. Capt. Harry Gaukroger, of the lost vessel, will be an important witness.

HELD BY TRIBESMEN.

London, June 16.—Advices from Fez, Morocco, under date of June 12, state that George Reed, of Weeping Water, Nebraska, the secretary of the Moroccan Mission of the Gospel Union, is safe, but still a prisoner of the rebellious tribesmen in the mountains near Sefroo.

COLONEL'S PARDON ARRIVED TOO LATE

EXILE TELLS OF REBEL LEADER'S FATE

Condemned Insurgent Officer Directed Details of His Own Execution

Los Angeles, Cal., June 16.—Revealing to-day for the first time the details of the execution of Col. Morelos by the rebels at Culiacan, Diego Redo, the exiled governor of Sinaloa, pictured the slain federal commander as a gallant victim of fate, who died a few moments before a pardon arrived.

According to Redo, a spirit of revenge harbored by some of the victorious rebel chieftains at Culiacan caused them to violate a pledge to safeguard the lives of Morelos and his lieutenant, Major Del Coral. At the last moment the insurrecto firing squad hesitated and Morelos directed the details of his own execution.

"There was no false bravery in Col. Morelos," said Redo. "He permitted the bandage to be pinned over his eyes and stood waiting for the volley of bullets. There was some delay. The squad of men assigned to the duty of executing was unused to such a scene. Col. Morelos, knowing there was some confusion, raised his hand and removed the bandage. 'There is no necessity for making a mistake,' he said to the commanding officer, 'select a certain number of men of your firing squad and then direct them to fire as you drop your sabre. Why should my body be filled full of bullets by indiscriminate firing, when one or three or six will do the work?' Having so instructed the officer, Col. Morelos dropped the bandage over his eyes again, placed his two hands upon his breast and said: 'I'm ready.' A moment later came the orders from headquarters for the preservation of Col. Morelos' life. But it was too late.

"Two days before he was shot Col. Morelos had been granted the great cross of the first military order. Only four men had been accorded such honor. Col. Morelos never knew he had been so honored.

ONLY DECK HANDS ARE ON STRIKE

Canadian Pacific Grants Increase to Crew of Empress of Ireland

London, June 16.—The shipping strike has developed largely into a squabble over wages and outside of a few mail steamers the shipowners generally are not suffering appreciable inconvenience. The number of strikers is limited strictly to deck hands.

Despite the concession of $2.50 a month in wages made by the Canadian Pacific railway yesterday, when the time came for the signing of a crew for the Empress of Ireland to-day, the company was forced to concede an additional $1.25. The original demand of the men was for an advance of $5 a month.

RECORDS PASSED IN REALTY MARKET

ONE FIRM HAS HANDLED OVER $400,000 WORTH

Great Rush in Business Section of the City — Outer Wharf Property Advances

June, the month of roses, has been a rosy month for Victoria if the healthy condition of the realty market is any reflex at all. Only half of the month has elapsed and yet, it is asserted, record figures have been scored in the sale of property in the city. This mid-season revival of activity is welcomed as a good omen for the real estate business in the fall, at which time it generally assumes an aspect of renewed activity.

The principal feature about this mid-year development is the great rush for business sites on the principal thoroughfares of the city. Douglas street experienced an unprecedented rush of buyers, whose enthusiasm took the form of very substantial prices for the lots obtained; and Yates, Fort and Government, together with several of the connecting streets, attained unusual prominence.

From the magnitude of several of the sales effected on Douglas street it may be gathered that in the near future this thoroughgare will assume a much more central position in a business connection. The centrifugal force of a city is its business houses. Douglas street appears to have realized the fact and is getting itself into line to be the very vortex. The advantages of this thoroughfare for business purposes are so manifest and manifold that to repeat them inspires tedium—save, of course, to a real estate agent—and this recognition of its potentialities is more than due, it is overdue.

In order to give some idea of the tremendous activity round the central parts of the city it may be stated that one firm alone, that of F. Landsberg, has effected sales aggregating in value the sum of $400,000. Other firms operating the business section in the city have also put through large deals, and it is confidently asserted that a combination of sales would place the present month of June far ahead of any previous month in the history of the city in the sale of real estate.

Another portion of the city that has come in for considerable attention is that located at the outer wharf. Possibly the harbor railway project has stimulated interest in this section. At any rate it is certain that large prices are now being demanded for land in that vicinity which could have been obtained before for about a quarter of its present market price.

WILL REDUCE THE SUPPLY OF LOGS

Camps in Washington Will Be Closed Two Weeks Longer Than Usual

Seattle, Wash., June 16.—Loggers representing nearly one half of the logging operators on Puget Sound, at a meeting in the assembly hall of the Henry building, yesterday decided on suspending logging operations this year two weeks longer than usual in an effort to save the large surplus of fir logs now in the water, and which loggers declare will be an absolute loss if loggers keep dumping fresh logs into the water.

Instead of the usual week or two weeks shut-down, the first of the camps will be kept closed until August 1. By that time loggers hope that the surplus logs will have been so used up that logging operations can be resumed. Yesterday's meeting was said to have been the largest meeting of its kind ever held in the northwest. It was a mass meeting of large and small loggers, of loggers affiliated with the Washington Logging & Brokerage Company, and of millmen who do their own logging. Forty-five representative loggers were present. D. E. Skinner, president of the Port Blakeley Mill Co., presided, and T. Jerome, of the Merrill Ring Bliss Company, acted as secretary.

The discussion brought out the information that the demand for logs has fallen off materially since the mills commenced to curtail, and that logs have been going into the water much faster than the demand warranted. The sentiment of loggers was that unless quick action was taken to curtail the supply, millions of feet of valuable logs would become a total loss and bring disaster to owners.

With the exception of two or three loggers who have contracts calling for the delivery of logs during July, every logger present at the meeting expressed a willingness to co-operate in cutting down the supply of logs.

SERVICES APPRECIATED.

Napanee, June 16.—The Conservative Associations of Lennox and Addington passed a resolution when in convention yesterday appreciating the services of Uriah Wilson, for 25 years representative in the Commons. Mr. Wilson declined renomination.

TREATMENT OF ORE.

Toronto, June 16.—A meeting of the shareholders of the Island Smelter Co. will be held on June 29, to ratify the sale of secret processes and assets to Sir Donald Mann, who offered $5,000,000 to Dr. Island and associates provided the process discovered by Dr. Island will treat refractory ores in British Columbia. Sir Donald will also organize a new $10,000,000 company and give the present shareholders share for share in the new company.

ELECTION PROTEST.

London, June 16.—A hearing of the petition to unseat Mr. Charles F. C. Masterman, under secretary of state in the Home Office, and member of the House of Commons for the North Division of West Ham, is in progress in the law courts. Irregularities are alleged in respect to payments for election expenses at the last election.

FAVORS FREER TRADE RELATIONS

F. T. CONGDON, M. P., SPEAKS AT SEATTLE

Believes Reciprocity Pact Will Advance Cause of World Peace

Seattle, Wash., June 16.—"Having lived in peace for a century without a gun turned either way, or a fortress along our entire boundary, and suffered reciprocity in disadvantages, we should now have reciprocity in advantages," said Fred T. Congdon, member of the Canadian parliament, and former governor of the Yukon territory, addressing a meeting held in the Arctic Club last night, on the occasion of the club's observance of ladies' night.

Mr. Congdon said that the proposed reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada was by no means a new question, that in the original agreement for peace between Great Britain and the United States there was a provision inserted for reciprocity with Canada, but that it was found to be beyond the scope given the arbitrators of the two countries and the restricted reciprocal relations were provided by the Jay treaty adopted by the two countries in 1794.

"Nations, like individuals, are interdependent," said Mr. Congdon. "The United States has now become one of the great world powers. Canada is a young nation. Both are virtually republics, because after all we have a democracy as you have a democracy, and it is for the mutual benefit of the two countries that they should have freer trade relations.

"We should have from you what we are willing to extend, and the best trade is that which promotes mutual advantages. You have received some of our people, and now Canada is receiving some of your people, and the two countries are becoming fast united by bonds of common interests, and so step by step we should advance for the common welfare.

"But the economic aspect of the question is not as great, in my judgment," continued Mr. Congdon, "as its moral side, for I look forward to its being the means of ensuring enlargement of the great treaty and eventually world peace."

Mr. Congdon then said that annexation was not necessary, that the United States was large enough, but that there was not a fairer pact than that now before the two countries for ratification and that its adoption would be a great step in advance for the countries whose positions now so well correspond.

Falcon Jostin spoke briefly, approved of the proposed agreement and said that a lesson or two taken from Canada might relieve the United States of the new-fangled questions that forged them to the front during the last few years, vain efforts, almost, to maintain responsible government.

SOLDIER KICKED TO DEATH BY HORSES

Member of Army Service Corps Killed at Military Camp at Calgary

Calgary June 16.—Alexander Gibson, of No. 4 army service corps, was killed at the military camp here yesterday. He was bringing a load of hay into camp when several of the bales became dislodged and fell upon him, throwing him under the horses' hoofs. The animals began to lash out, and before Gibson could be rescued he was dead, his head and body being literally kicked to a jelly. His parent live at 53 Frances street west, Fort William.

WINNIPEGGERS SCORED.

Medicine Hat, June 16.—At a special meeting of the board of trade a resolution was passed strongly scoring Winnipeg business men who are alleged to have interfered in Medicine Hat affairs by accompanying a Calgary delegation which interviewed W. Whyte asking for the location of the new Canadian Pacific shop at Calgary.

BRANCH LINE TO COWICHAN LAKE

CANADIAN PACIFIC CALLS FOR TENDERS

Big Sawmill Will Be Erected on East Coast of the Island

Vancouver, June 16.—The Canadian Pacific railway has just called for tenders for the construction of the proposed Cowichan branch to extend from Duncan, on the E. & N. line, to Cowichan Lake, a distance of 25 miles. It is expected that the work will be rushed to completion within six months, as no engineering difficulties will be encountered.

The route follows a water grade all the way and traverses a region containing billions of feet of the finest timber on the island, most of it being in the E. & N. land grant now owned by the C. P. R.

The building of this railway will also stimulate tourist travel to Cowichan Lake, which has unrivalled fishing, and which is now reached by stage. The right-of-way has already been slashed.

Last year the American Finance & Securities Company of New York, through its president, E. B. Kurtz, purchased 54,000 acres of timber lands in the vicinity of the lake, the C. P. R. being the vendor. Ownership of this large tract is now vested in a subsidiary corporation organized by Mr. Kurtz and styled the Empire Lumber Co., which intends to operate on a large scale. The company will also undertake the construction of a big sawmill on the east coast of Vancouver Island. A branch line will be extended from Duncan to the proposed plant. The Cowichan branch will also afford transportation facilities to other large lumber operators.

DIAZ WILL PAY VISIT TO FRANCE

Former President of Mexico Will Later Return to Spain for Indefinite Stay

Vigo, Spain, June 16.—Gen. Porfiro Diaz, former president of Mexico, arrived in the harbor to-day on the steamer Ypiranga, on which he sailed from Vera Cruz, Mexico, on May 31. The steamer reached the bay at 6.30 o'clock this morning.

According to such of his plans as were made public prior to his departure from Mexico, General Diaz will continue to Havre, France, later returning to Spain for an indefinite stay.

Last night's cable despatches from Vigo stated that members of the Progressive party and workmen were organizing an unfriendly demonstration against Diaz in the event he landed. The Mexican minister to Portugal is at Vigo to receive his former chief.

The Ypiranga, after a stop of two hours proceeded to Corunnia. President Diaz did not land and during the stay of the vessel in the harbor no unpleasant incident occurred.

It was reported last night that members of the Progressive party and workingmen had arranged to express their unfavorable opposition toward the former president in the event that he came ashore.

URGES INCREASES FOR MINISTERS

REPORT SUBMITTED TO GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Committee Named to Present Address of Welcome to Duke of Connaught

Ottawa, June 16.—The Presbyterian General Assembly held the closing session to-day. Action to make effective the stand on the Ne Temere decree was taken. The resolution previously passed was augmented by a motion of Rev. G. A. Wilson, Vancouver, and Dr. Duval, Winnipeg, to name a committee.

The Moderator Rev. Dr. MacKay, and Rev. Dr. Somerville will prepare and present an address to the Duke of Connaught on his arrival as Governor-General. The report of the committee finances deals strongly with the salary question. The report says salaries paid ministers and missionaries of church are inadequate and that the time has come when substantial increases should be made.

Prof. Pidgeon, Vancouver, spoke on systematic giving. The assembly also approved Prof. Pidgeon's resolution expressing gratification at the measures taken by the Imperial government against the opium traffic.

Swift Current, Sask., June 16.—A big fire is raging here. The blaze started in the Great Northern Supply Company's building in the heart of the business section and it looks bad for a big area. All the boards were urged to use their influence to discourage the exploitation of worthless subdivision property. The local government was urged to construct a highway from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast.

GUNNER ALLEN A LIFE SENTENCE

CONVICTED MEN ARE SENTENCED TO-DAY

Statement by Allen Before Sentence — Prince Rupert Rioters Up to Three Years

Prisoners found guilty at the spring assizes were sentenced this morning by Mr. Justice Murphy as follows:

Thomas Allen, manslaughter, natural life.

J. Vujovich, shooting with intent, three years in the penitentiary.

Mike Burich, Dan Mulovich, Mike Secovich, Antone Sevich and Mike Savich, unlawful assembly and rioting, two years in the penitentiary.

Noah Palovich, Vuck Sandralovich, Steve Brudo, unlawful assembly and rioting, with recommendation to mercy, one year hard labor.

Jura Radulovich, unlawful assembly and rioting, strong recommendation to mercy, six months' hard labor.

Allen, asked if he had anything to say, made a long, rambling statement, saying he could not remember what happened on August 1 last, but wished to point out some defects in the evidence. He believed a struggle took place in the room between Bryan and Corrigan, and that Capt. Elliston was killed as a result. He held the evidence was wrong in connection with the looking-glass and the position in which he was seen at the window by Bryan. Bryan was afarid, said Allen, to report the matter, but his scare evaporated as soon as he heard of Allen's arrest. He believed the shells found in the room and the one in the gun were obtained by Bryan and Corrigan at the rifle ranges in Vancouver. The shells were of English make, such as used at the Vancouver rifle meeting, while those at the barracks were of Canadian manufacture. He identified them by the letter K on the outside of the shell, and said it would be easy for Corrigan to slip a few rounds in Allen's pocket. He only remembered the explosion.

Mr. Justice Murphy told Allen that the jury had taken a very merciful view of his crime, and one with which his lordship did not agree. He believed Allen to be guilty of wilful murder.

H. A. Maclean, K. C., for W. E. Williams, counsel for the Prince Rupert prisoners, made an appeal for mercy for the men on account of their being foreigners. Vujovich maintained he was not guilty and had no gun. The other men said they had brought witnesses to prove they were not guilty. They were addressed through an interpreter whose knowledge of English was imperfect. His lordship said it was an outrage that the crown had not provided a proper and competent interpreter.

CHICAGO EXPLOSION.

Chicago, June 16.—For the third time within a month an explosion occurred to-day in a cable conduit of the Commonwealth Edison Company under the subway of a railroad track. It shattered windows in buildings within a radius of a block and threw several families from their beds.

The police believe the explosion was caused by a bomb set off by labor agitators. Officials of the Edison Company, however, say they have had no recent trouble with their employees and are unable to solve the cause of the mysterious explosions.

STABBED HORSE TO DEATH.

Chicago, June 16.—John O'Brien, a teamster, was sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary by Judge Kavanaugh here for stabbing a horse to death because it would not stand.

The Advance Man

Nance O'Neil To-Morrow.

David Belasco's big metropolitan success of last season, "The Lily," will be the offering at the Victoria theatre tomorrow evening.

"The Lily" is an adaptation by Mr. Belasco from the French of Pierre Wolff and Gaston Leroux, and is said to be an especially well constructed play, as well as a most admirably played one. The theme is decidedly French, and deals ostensibly with the perfect right of each individual to love and be loved, irrespective of caste, creed or condition, and it is said that Mr. Belasco, with that masterly touch of stagecraft and creation that has made his name famous as a successful producer, has so eliminated all traces of the broader touches of Parisian suggestion by his adaptation that, for purity of purpose and wholesomeness of presentation, it is as chaste as the flower from which the title was taken.

The original cast is headed by Nance O'Neil, an actress of artistry and strength, and Charles Cartwright, whose performance with Mrs. Fiske in "Leah Kleschna" will always be remembered with pleasure. Julia Dean, Alfred Hickman, Oscar Eagle, Elliott Dexter, Wm. C. Holden, Antoinette Walker, Ethel Grey Terry and Douglas Patterson are also conspicuously in evidence.

The mammoth production, accessories, etc., will be upon the usual scale of Belasco stability and effectiveness.

Coming With Chevalier.

Edna Blanche Showalter, the prima donna, whom Canada will hear for the first time with Chevalier, is only 22, but she has already been acclaimed by musical critics as the "Melba of Tomorrow." Her rise has been remarkably rapid, for a few years ago she was absolutely unknown to the musical world. How one opportunity leads to another is exemplified in Miss Showalter's career. Her first opportunity came when she was engaged for the grand opera "Paoletta," produced at Cincinnati under the auspices of the Ohio Valley exposition. Miss Showalter alternated the leading role with Mme. de Pasquali, of the Metropolitan opera, and scored an instant and complete success. Walter Damrosch, the great conductor, heard her and immediately engaged her as soloist with the Damrosch orchestra for its 1910-11 tour. Henry W. D. Savage, the far-seeing impresario, in search of a prima donna to sing the leading role in his English production of Puccini "Girl of the Golden West," heard Miss Showalter's exquisite voice and declaring her to be the ideal "Minnie" has secured her as prima donna for the first English production of the opera.

Miss Showalter will be heard at the Victoria theatre on June 22 and 24, when Chevalier comes here as a coronation attraction.

John Drew in "Smith."

When John Drew appears in "Smith" at the Victoria theatre on Friday evening, June 23, he will have the complete original company with him from the Empire theatre, New York, where the piece was played for three months. A better company, it may safely be said, has never been seen in this city in support of a star.

Charles Frohman takes particular pride in the John Drew organization, and each and every actor is carefully selected for his or her special fitness for the role to be portrayed. The performance of "Smith" from the star down is said to approach perfection as nearly as it is possible in stage work.

The supporting company includes Mary Boland, Isabel Irving, Sybil Thorndyke, Jane Laurel, Morton Selten, Hassard Short and Lewis Casson.

FROM PRISON TO CHURCH.

Shoplifter Weds and is Released From Jail.

Canon City, Col., June 16.—On Wednesday pretty Mabel Manning was convict 7980 in the Colorado State prison here. Yesterday she became Mrs. George A. Reid, the wife of a government forest ranger, and at once left with her husband for their home among the Arizona pines. Never was there more convincing proof that "Love laughs at locksmiths" than this wedding that took place here yesterday.

Reid's unswerving faith in the woman he loved opened the prison gates for her. She was convicted of shoplifting in Denver and sentenced to from two to three years in the penitentiary on January 22 of this year. Reid, to whom she was engaged, came from Arizona at the time of her arrest, and after her conviction worked steadfastly for her release. At a hearing before the board of pardons Reid promised to marry the girl if her sentence were commuted so that she could be paroled, and secured favorable action. Warden Tynan gave his consent to her leaving the state after she had become Mrs. Reid, and yesterday she stepped from the prison to the church.

HUNTERS RETURN FROM THE NORTH

Two Austrian Noblemen Regard British Columbia as Sportsman's Paradise

Vancouver, June 16.—Bronzed and weatherbeaten after a six weeks bear-hunting trip in the wilds adjacent to the Stikine river and its tributary, the Iskut, in northern British Columbia, two Austrian noblemen, Count Wilozek and Count Hoyos, returned to this city yesterday. They are delighted with their experiences and regard this province as a sportsman's paradise.

The hunters shot eight bears, including three grizzlies, but had no thrilling adventures. At Wrangel, Alaska, they secured an Indian guide and ascended the river in a canoe.

"We hunted on the Stikine and the Iskut rivers and on returning to Vienna will advertise it to the world as one of the best big game districts in the world," said Count Hoyos.

"It is almost impossible to stalk bear owing to the dence underbrush, so we contented ourselves with watching for game from our boat. In all we saw forty-nine, including a dozen grizzlies, but in most instances they were out of rifle range. Whenever we spotted an animal near shore we landed and went in pursuit.

"Those we killed fortunately offered a good target when they started to cross barren hillsides. We kept close together in case of an attack. We, however, had no thrilling experiences owing to the deadly character of the modern express rifle. We each secured four, as we had arranged to take shots in rotation. One of the grizzlies measured ten feet from tip to tip. We are bringing home the pelts to show our friends what can be had out there in the way of big game, and also as souvenirs of our pleasant trip."

The visitors left in the afternoon for New York, whence they will sail for Europe. They may return next September with a party of friends. Count Hoyos was a personal friend of Phil Oberlander, a Bohemian big game hunter who formerly visited British Columbia every year. Mr. Oberlander was killed a few months ago in South Africa by a wild buffalo which he had wounded. The animal gored Mr. Oblander to death.

SAANICH TO LIGHT MONSTER BONFIRE

People Will Testify Their Loyalty on June 22 From Mount Douglas

A bonfire on Mt. Douglas heights is the manner in which the loyal Saanich council intends to celebrate the coronation of King George. Councillor Sewell, who is partial to this style of celebration, has no thought that he will be knighted on this occasion. His zeal is national, not personal, and as it is a long time between coronations this ancient custom of watch fires, he thinks, will be more impressive than rockets, squibs and firecrackers.

Councillor Haldon, who has an eye to business, volunteered to set ablaze 20 acres of slashed timber on that night. The council agree to this, but stipulated that he haul it all to the top of Mount Douglas, and so the worthy representative of Ward 6 is seriously considering whether the game is worth the candle.

Another subject of a vastly different nature varied the council's proceedings at last meeting. The Chinese piggeries are strongly objected to by resident ratepayers, and two new concerns which applied for permits to erect such buildings on five-acre lots were refused on two counts. First, because it is contrary to the by-law regulating piggeries, and, second, because it is an offence against the Health Act. The district is being settled so rapidly along the Carey and Glanford avenues that the council intend at a near date to prohibit the keeping of pigs within certain bounds to be determined.

C. M. Roberts submitted a subdivision plan of a section near Mount Tolmie park. This was returned to have plan of adjoining property included.

E. Wilkinson, on behalf of S. Tolmie, submitted a plan of a proposed subdivision between Cedar Hill cross roads and Blenkinsop road, being part of the "Braefoot" farm. This was found in order and accepted.

Mr. Sorenson addressed the council on the need of water supply on Alder street. The present main is not far distant from his property, but as it is laid under the local improvement plan and as the property owners who are paying the cost object to a prospective diminishment in their supply, the council finds itself powerless to help him. He was advised to petition for a larger main.

Mason & Mann wrote offering 10 feet to widen the Wilkinson road on part of sec. 16. This letter was received and filed, and the writers notified that the offer is accepted.

J. Pridmore offered to grade the proposed continuation of Wellington road, not including rock work, for $350. This is $100 under the road foreman's estimate for the same work. The letter was laid on the table to be considered when plan of the subdivision is submitted to the council.

Thomas Sorby, secretary of the Ratepayers' Association of Victoria, asked the Saanich council to co-operate with the city in publishing its assessment roll, and offered to contribute towards the cost of same.

Councillor Sewell moved that the scheme be not entertained, and the motion carried.

Horace Johnson wrote re an intended subdivision, and asked what the council's intentions were respecting streets. He will be informed that all streets must be 66-feet wide and lots must not be less than 50x120 feet.

Herbert Cuthbert, secretary of the coronation celebration committee, asked the council to provide a bonfire to celebrate coronation night. The invitation was accepted and $100 set aside for this purpose.

W. F. Loveland sent in his resignation as license commissioner owing to his absence from the district. The resignation was accepted, and F. G. Quick, J. P., was appointed to the vacant position.

R. McMorran and eight others petitioned for a road between secs. 31 and 32, Lake district, near Cordova Bay. The prayer of the petitioner was not entertained, because residents were not being inconvenienced at present.

The finance committee reported bills to the extent of $600 in order, and their report was adopted. The constable's report took the same course.

Local Improvement By-law No. 8, providing for water supply to the Gorge district, was reconsidered and finally passed.

The reeve reported that he had examined the B. C. electric line where it touched the public highways, and a plan is being prepared for the council's consideration. The reeve reported also that proceedings have been begun against the Worswick Paving Company for blasting without a permit at Mount Tolmie.

James Pim, road superintendent, is convalescent, and soon will be able to resume his duties.

TENDERS INVITED FOR RAILWAY WORK

Contracts for Section of G. T. P. Will Be Awarded Without Delay

Vancouver, June 16.—B. B. Kelliher, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, reached here yesterday from Winnipeg. He will leave shortly for Prince Rupert in company with Collingwood Schreiber, government chief engineer of railways. They will then go over the completed portion of the main line and proceed inland as far as Hazelton on an inspection trip.

Mr. Kelliher to-day confirmed the report that he had just invited tenders for the construction of the uncompleted gap of 410 miles between Aldermere in Bulkley Valley and Tete Jaune Cache on the Fraser River, fifty miles west of Yellowhead Pass. He expects to see a portion of this section dotted with construction camps later in the summer as the contract will be awarded without any unnecessary delay in order to enable the successful contractors to get in supplies before winter sets in.

INJURED WHILE MIXING CHEMICALS

Drug Clerk May Lose His Sight as the Result of an Explosion

Middletown, Conn., June 16.—Harold Parmalee, a drug clerk here, is in a hospital to-day and may lose his sight as the result of an explosion of chemicals which he was compounding in accordance with a prescription for liniament.

The prescription called for a mixture of quicksilver and nitric acid. It seemed an unusual compound and the drug clerk asked the customer if he was sure it was right. The customer assured him that he had used it many times before. Parmalee went back to the prescription counter and poured the two chemicals together. Immediately a deafening explosion shook the building. Parmalee, blinded and injured, staggered from behind the counter in a fury of pain and attacked the young man who had given the order. The fellow took to his heels and Parmalee collapsed. Globules of the mixture had wounded his body as if they were small shot and his eyes were terribly burned.

SLAIN BY HOLD-UPMAN.

Saloon-Keeper Shot When He Failed to Obey Robber's Command.

Chicago, June 16.—Hesitation to obey the commands of two negro hold-up men cost J. H. Nohren, a saloonkeeper, at Carroll avenue and North Paulina street, his life yesterday. As he was counting his money after closing up, two negroes entered the saloon and one covered him with a revolver. He hesitated when they commanded him to throw up his hands and was shot through the head. One negro was captured by a police officer, but the other escaped.

THINKING THEMES

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

The first duty of the state is to make it easy for the common run of young people to marry. The fundamental problem is the sex problem. The only solution of it which our civilization will tolerate is matrimony.

And early marriages are the firmest support of public order and private virtue. The only rational, scientific and moral way out, in the uproar of crying vitality which breaks forth in man and in woman with the coming of adulthood, is marriage.

The chief obstacle to early marriage is economic. The young people think they cannot afford it. Any social or business condition that strengthens them in this notion is a menace.

To make it practical for the youth to marry early and to seek children, society should take all pains. First, the price of necessary foods should be kept low. Second, the dwellings of the wageearners should be cheap in rent, clean and beautiful. Third, education should be free, as it is; and children should be taught only what is useful and beautiful. But, most important of all, public amusement should be plentiful and cheap; the theatres, opera and orchestral and choral entertainments should be managed by the municipality and put within reach of people of small means.

Everything should be done to make marriage possible and practical in adolescence, that is, between the ages of 15 and 21.

SCHEME TO DEFRAUD STREET CAR COMPANY

Counterfeit Tickets Alleged to Have Been Sold Wholesale to Conductors

Chicago, June 16.—A wholesale mail order business in alleged counterfeit street car tickets was uncovered Wednesday in two raids on the south side residence districts. As a result of the raids J. G. Farris, conductor on the Illinois Central Railroad, is under arrest and his brother William L. Farris, another employee of the road, is a fugitive.

They are charged with being the leaders of the scheme. Officials of a detective agency, who led the raids, say they have evidence that the men maintained a printing establishment in the outskirts of Aton, Ohio, printed the tickets there, brought them to Chicago headquarters and sold them to street car conductors on the Cleveland, Ohio Railway. In the course of the year it is charged fully 1,000,000 tickets on the Cleveland lines were sold.

AVOIDING THE ISSUE.

Samuel Gompers Criticizes Recent Action of United States Supreme Court.

Washington, D. C., June 15.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, last night declared that the United States Supreme court in its recent decision quashing the joint sentence of himself, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, in contempt proceedings, avoided the issue and decided the cases against the labor leaders in academic fashion. Mr. Gompers was one of the speakers at a banquet in honor of the executive council of the federation and of the fifteen members of the House of Representatives who carry union cards. The speaker said if the rule of reason applies when vast wealth is concerned it should not be omitted when activity is at issue.

REPORTS ON WHEAT PROSPECTS.

Washington, D. C., June 16.—A bumper harvest of wheat in British India, estimated at 369,000,000 bushels, surpassing all previous yields, and a record area sown of the spring wheat in Western Canada where 90 per cent. of the winter wheat is grown, are features of the world's review of May agricultural news announced by the department of agriculture to-day. In Argentina, the wheat exporter of the southern hemisphere, the autumn crops have failed. The recently gathered corn crop there turned out badly, and little surplus will be available for export. The corn crop of South America also is reported to be damaged by drought, and practically will be none for export.

MERGER OF BAKERIES.

New York, June 16.—Twenty-one big baking companies in cities dotting the east and south from Boston to St. Louis and New Orleans, threw in their lot together yesterday, merging under the name of the General Baking Company, with a total capital of $20,000,000 in stocks and $5,000,000 in bonds. The new chain of bakeries will be operated in fifteen cities. "In the formation of the General Baking Company," the announcement reads, "there is no thought or purpose of the establishment of a monopoly in the manufacture or sale of bread."

MUST NOT CARRY FIREARMS.

Seattle, Wash., June 16.—The first arrests and conviction under the new state law forbidding aliens to carry firearms unless provided with a permit from the state and a county license, took place on Vashon Island, when four Japanese were arrested, and two rifles, two shotguns and a pistol were seized. The law passed last winter during a time of anti-Japanese agitation in California, and was termed anti-Japanese legislation, but was designed to protect the song birds threatened with extermination.

COMPETITION MUST NOT BE STIFLED

Judgment Against Three Subsidiary Companies of the Standard Oil

Topeka, Kan., June 16.—The Kansas supreme court yesterday afternoon handed down a decision in the state's suit against three subsidiary companies of the parent Standard Oil Co., prohibiting them from combining to stifle competition.

Three companies against which the suit was brought are the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, the Standard Oil Co. of Kansas, and the Prairie Oil and Gas Co., all subsidiary to the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. Each of these companies is chartered in Kansas to produce, purchase and otherwise procure crude oil, to refine it and to market it. None of the companies have been doing this, according to the findings, but each has been working as part of a system.

It is brought out in the evidence that the Prairie Oil and Gas is the transportation company purchasing the crude oil and transporting it to the Standard Oil Co. of Kansas, which is the refining company. The latter turns the refined product over to the Standard Oil company of Indiana, which is the marketing end of the enterprise. The state asserts that this division of labor showed an illegal agreement between the three.

The defendant companies are enjoined from owning stock in each other; they are enjoined from selling petroleum or petroleum products cheaper in one part of the state than in another for the purpose of driving out competition, and from making agreements with any person or firm to cause the latter to refrain from handling or selling oil in Kansas.

The Standard Oil company of Indiana, the selling company, is also refrained from selling under different brands or trade names oil of the same quality.

Urges Prosecution.

Washington, D. C., June 16.—Senator Pomerene in a speech yesterday, called on the attorney-general to undertake criminal prosecution of the officers of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies under the recent decision of the United States supreme court in the case of the two corporations.

He did not ask for action on his resolutions instructing the attorney-general to begin the suits, giving way to Senator Nelson, who desired to speak on Canadian reciprocity, but he will press for a vote in the immediate future.

Taking up the cudgels in behalf of Attorney-General Wickersham, whom Mr. Pomerene had criticised, Senator Kenyon declared that the political head of the department of justice had achieved more results in his prosecution of trusts than any of his predecessors. He said Mr. Wickersham did not require instructions from congress to do his duty.

Senator Nelson created a diversion when, in applauding Mr. Wickersham's work, he declared that the present governor of Ohio, Judson Harmon, when attorney-general in President Cleveland's cabinet, had said the Sherman anti-trust law was a dead letter. Both Senators Pomerene and Hitchcock were immediately on their feet to reply.

"That is mere imagination," said the Nebraska senator, "Mr. Harmon was the official who first breathed any life into the law."

ROYAL ENGAGEMENT

Vienna, June 16.—Announcement of the engagement of Arch-Duke Carl Franz Josef and Princess Zita of Parma came as a complete surprise to court circles to-day and part of the Imperial family. It is believed the marriage was arranged by the heir to the throne, to prevent influence being exercised on the heir presumptive by other members of the family. The bride's mother is widowed and enormously wealthy and is a sister of Arch-Duchess Maria Theresa, who is step-mother to the heir to the throne.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

New York, June 16.—In observance of the seventh anniversary of the General Slocum disaster June 15, 1904, when more than one thousand women and children lost their lives in the burning of the excursion steamer in the East river, impressive memorial services were conducted yesterday in the little Lutheran cemetery in Queensborough, where many of the unidentified dead were buried.

ELECTRICAL STORM.

Hornbrook, Cal., June 16.—A terrific electrical storm, accompanied by rainfall of almost the proportions of a cloudburst, struck here, over half an inch of rain falling within a couple of hours. Lightning struck the sub-station of the Siskiyou Light & Power Company, burning part of the transformers. The telephone and telegraph lines in this vicinity, including the overland wires between San Francisco and northern points, were out of commission for several hours.

A GENEROUS COUNCIL.

It is just five weeks since the Times directed the attention of the public to the generous disposition manifested by the City Council in its attitude toward the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company as shown in its desire to award the whole of the paving contracts of the city to that one concern. Among other objections to such a generous award we pointed out that the contract secured none of the rights of workingmen and left them entirely at the mercy of the contracting firm. At the meeting of the council held the same evening members called the comments of this paper harsh and unjust, and the clauses protecting workingmen were read in refutation of the Times's contention. By a singular coincidence the same members of the council resented the criticism of the Times anent the refusal of the laborers an increase in the minimum wage from $2.75 to $3 per day. The ground for this refusal was that a contract had been entered into on tenders based upon figures of wages in scale at the time, and it would be an injustice to the contracting concern to raise the minimum day's pay. The paternal interest of these members of the council in their pet paving company is obvious, and it is clear that the company must be protected whatever be the consequences to the city laborer. According to the newspaper reports of the matter when it was discussed by the council, no reference was made or thought given to the rights of laborers or the justice or injustice of their petition for an increase of pay. The whole matter was argued and was decided upon the issue of justice or injustice to a wealthy and powerful contracting firm.

It is true, the Mayor, with characteristic diplomacy, suggested that he had no objection to the payment of a higher wage to those workmen who were worth more than the minimum scale, but he was shrewd enough to protect the council by removing the responsibility for decision in the matter upon the department of the engineer. It would be as easy to say that the Mayor did not know that the engineer would have no end of trouble and conflict over a matter of this kind as to say that, as the head of the council, he would be prepared to take his share of that responsibility. It is very difficult to state whether his object was to avoid trouble for the council or to make trouble for the engineer.

The paving company is already snapping its fingers at the council by bringing its horses and many of the appliances necessary to carry on its work from an alien country, thus preventing the engagement and employment of much machinery and accessories owned in the city, and compelling these to lie idle, the owners suffering the consequent loss. How far this degradation of local industry will be carried cannot yet be estimated.

THE QUEBEC BRIDGE.

The heavy work, if we may dignify the editorial columns of the Colonist by so courteous a name, was done this morning in an article under the above caption. As is too commonly the practice of the morning paper, it falls again into the error and deception of quoting extensively from other papers to support the line of argument it is pursuing. The quotation habit of the Colonist is an unerring evidence of perverted judgment if not perversion of fact. Not only is it careful to select such paragraphs as can be implied into a support of its criticism, but when necessary to its purpose it does not scruple to split a sentence, and it often does this with the deliberate purpose of misrepresenting the position taken by its journalistic contemporaries. It has done this in the case of the Quebec bridge question, having pieced together quotations from two different papers to complete the chain of its vicious argument. Having patched up its case to suit its malign purpose without even honorably placing quotation marks in its paragraphs to show how much and from whom it stole, it winds up its malversation of the facts in the case by grandiloquently stating that "this is a transaction that will need a good deal of explanation before the public will be satisfied."

So far we may be permitted to let the Colonist case go for what it is worth. But in its concluding paragraph the morning paper says: "All the explanations given so far do not improve the case in the least, and we do not believe that any possible explanation can improve it." That is where the Colonist erred. Wilful, deliberate falsehood without extenuation of any sort.

When the exchanges from the east which discussed the award of the Quebec bridge contract began to come to hand, the Times, noting the varied criticisms of the action of the government by the Tory papers, went to the root of the matter. Knowing the habits of the Colonist and its unscrupulous method of dealing with questions involving the credit of the administration at Ottawa, the Times anticipated just such an attack as the Colonist made this morning, and laid aside the copy of a report made in a "respectable" Conservative paper which lives right on the ground and detailed a reporter to look into and state the facts. We say this was done by a Conservative paper. This newspaper comes regularly to the Colonist desk. It is read every day by the Colonist and is frequently quoted with approval by the paper. We think its statement of the case as an official news item—not an editorial—covers the long-felt want over which the morning paper grieves to-day. We publish it in extenso and in quotation marks:

"The strenuous kick made in England by the chairman of the Metropolitan Carriage Company concerning the tenders for the Quebec bridge is characterized in official circles here as an unfair and inaccurate statement of the case. The gentleman, Mr. Wocker, made a lengthy reference to the case, but probably the gravamen of his allegations is that 'the government decided to accept the tender of a Canadian competitor, who bid for a railway bridge only, a type for which no tenders had been invited and which, moreover, was not in conformity with the conditions of the contract.'

"It is a long story, this Quebec bridge business. The magnitude of the work, the painful memory of past experience and the great cost involved all suggested the utmost care in dealing with the new situation. So it was that a commission of experts composed of Mr. Fitzmaurice of London, Mr. Modjeska of Chicago, and Mr. Vautelet of Montreal, was appointed to prepare plans for the new bridge and generally to supervise its construction. A plan was prepared largely by Mr. Vautelet.

"Then trouble arose. The other two members, Mr. Fitzmaurice and Mr. Modjeska, would not accept it. They disagreed with certain vital principles of fabrication, but Mr. Vautelet was insistent upon having his way. The upshot of the difference was a definite understanding that tenders should be invited upon Mr. Vautelet's plan, but that, also, the parties bidding should have the right to submit alternative designs. When the bids were called for this proviso, it is stated, was made plain and specific. It gave rise to the situation which is now complained of.

"In due time tenders were received, and while there were only four concerns which submitted bids, there were no fewer than thirty-five designs.

"The commissioners took six months to go over them. They decided that it was the safest plan to cut off the bridge the roadways and sidewalks and make it essentially a railway bridge with footpaths. It did not make much difference to the contractors, inasmuch as they were not to be paid a bulk sum, but so much per pound of material included in the structure.

"It was the design of the Canadian firm, the St. Lawrence Bridge Company, which was accepted. The British company, which is understood to have tendered upon the larger scale, had the same right and privilege, the department states, of submitting an alternative proposal. If it did not do so, it was its own lookout. The statement, therefore, that a contract was awarded for a type of bridge for which tenders had not been called is characterized as a perversion of fact in view of the specific provision for tenders being based either upon the original design or upon alternatives submitted by the bidders.

"No issue is taken with the statement that the British company was put to trouble and expense. Every concern which tendered expected that, and the plants of all the parties were inspected to determine their ability for carrying out the work. Briefly stated, the situation hinges largely upon the question of alternative design which, it seems, it did not avail itself of. It is asserted that Messrs. Modjeska and Fitzmaurice would never have consented to awarding a contract upon the Vautelet design because of their objection to its engineering principles. The government, in awarding the contract, acted upon the recommendation of the commission, which also called in two outside experts before making its award."

REFORM IN CHINA.

The recent Imperial decree in China confirming the members of China's first cabinet in their respective offices marks a new and long step of advance in the Oriental empire in the direction of constitutional government. The cabinet is now substituted for the various boards under which the administration was previously carried on and has greater liberty and power than the advisers of the emperor have ever had in the long history of the Celestial kingdoms.

While the decree which was announced on May 9 describes the cabinet as an experiment, there is little cause to doubt that the result of the change in the form of government will give such general satisfaction that its formal permanency is assured. The reform movement in China has been in progress for more than a decade and its promulgators have been students of Occidental thought and practice. They have carried on a widespread campaign of education among all classes in China, the result of which has been practically to force a change.

Under the newly adopted system the plan of Occidental governments has been largely followed and the administration of public affairs is divided among ministers each of whom is responsible for his own department. While the functions of the cabinet are not legislative, it is the prerogative of the members in council assembled to agree upon and recommend to the emperor such reforms, administrative and judicial measures as they devise. The emperor either issues an edict proclaiming the adoption of the recommendations or vetoing them at first hand. The issuing of the edict is tantamount to assent to a bill in the Occidental parliaments.

The earliest recommendation to be adopted was a decree for the suppression of opium, the terms of which have been already announced in the cabled dispatches. Ten years is allowed in which to completely abolish the growing, selling or using of the juice of the poppy, and the language of the decree is a study in Oriental diplomacy, logic, didactics and determination. We have no doubt that it will be effective, and foreigners who transgress the law or aid and abet in its transgression will find themselves no better than Chinese before the courts of justice.

The decree establishing the railway policy of the empire is somewhat amusing to the Occidental mind. The emperor says in acknowledging the memorial of the Ministry of Posts and Communications that the contents therein are satisfactory, but he adds: "As China is a vast place and the frontiers extend to several tens of thousands of li, it will take a period of several months to go through them in their distance." The general policy to be carried out in the administration of the empire is "to have a lengthwise and crosswise position in which the main lines will be open on all sides, to be connected with the Central so that communications can be made with everywhere."

The portfolios are: President (Prince Ching), two vice-presidents, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Minister of Finance, Minister of Interior, Minister of War, Minister of Navy, Minister of Education, Minister of Justice, Minister of Agriculture, Industry and Commerce, Minister of Posts and Communications, and a Minister of Dependencies.

The Farmers' Advocate has an article on what to do with eggs in warm weather. We know without being reminded of it.

* * *

The morning paper says "we must either move toward Empire or away from it." It is not necessary to do either. We are in the Empire and we propose to stay in the Empire. Not even the Colonist can expel us from the Empire or make us "move away from it."

* * *

The Toronto News occasionally hydrophobes so badly that the sting of its deadly virus is felt far west. In its last outbreak it says: "For all practical purposes Canada is represented at the Imperial conference by Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Monk. In every word that he utters and in every position that he takes, Sir Wilfrid Laurier is influenced by fear of the Nationalists. Nothing is plainer than that he has decided that the British sentiment of Canada can be ignored, and that so long as he placates Nationalist feeling in Quebec Liberal partizans in the other provinces will be satisfied." When we remember that Mr. Monk represents a strong section of the Conservative party and Mr. Bourassa has so often been quoted approvingly by the Tory press it seems too funny.

"IT'S THE WATER"

MENACE TO HEALTH AT VICTORIA WEST

Septic Tank Located Near the School House Alleged to Be Cesspool of Filth

Public attention is being called to the fact that the health of Victoria West is endangered by the neglect or ignorance of the city authorities in regard to a septic tank which was placed at the foot of Langford street. The tank is in close proximity to the Victoria West school and the children are said to be in imminent danger of being struck down with some disease. Quite recently a case of diphtheria developed among the pupils attending the school and it is claimed that the septic tank is responsible. The feeling of dread thus engendered in the breasts of parents having children attending the school will be readily understood.

From time to time, it is stated, the septic tank overflows, leaving a sediment in the valley at the back of the school house. The attention of the council is said to have been drawn to the matter by H. S. Shade, plumbing inspector, who requested that some action be taken immediately lest contagious disease should break out among the pupils. As the children are playing daily in the vicinity of this alleged death-trap the necessity of immediate action should be patent to the proper authorities. One complainant says that the spot referred to is "a stagnant mess of disease-breeding filth."

GETTING READY FOR CORONATION FETE

Official Acts on Morning of June 22—Work Begins on Arches

An official announcement has been made of the part that will be taken in the Coronation festival by the naval and military forces. In the morning at 9.30 a service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral, at which His Honor Lieut.-Governor Paterson and staff, Hon. H. E. Young, acting premier; contingents from the various vessels of the navy in port, and the united troops from Work Point Garrison, and the Fifth Regiment will attend.

The time of the service, which was before announced for 10.30, was changed at the request of Dr. Young, so that His Honor and himself could inspect the assemblage of school children early. This inspection will take place at Beacon Hill after the service at the cathedral. From the park the troops will return to the Parliament buildings and will march past the entrance, where the Lieut.-governor, Dr. Young, and the other members of the cabinet and prominent men of the city to whom official invitations will be sent, will be assembled.

At noon, when the troops march past the Parliament buildings, a royal salute of 21 guns will be fired by a ship at the entrance of the harbor. There will be no reading of a proclamation, as seems to be popularly expected.

The governor and acting premier will attend service in Metropolitan Methodist church on Wednesday evening.

A full rehearsal of the chorus which will render the open air concert on the evening of Coronation Day, is called for Monday at 8 p. m. at the drill hall. Every choir in the city will participate in this, including the Choral Society and the Arion Club. Any choirmasters who have not yet received programmes of the music will be supplied if they apply to the Hicks and Lovick store. Anyone unattached to a choir who is willing to take part in the singing, can obtain copies from Bandmaster Rogers of the Fifth Regiment, Mrs. S. Maclure or Gideon Hicks.

Substantial prizes will be given for the best decorated store fronts. As this will be practically the only decoration of the streets the committee in charge requests merchants and owners of buildings to assist in every way possible.

To-morrow night the coronation badges designed by the committee will be on sale. They may be obtained from the committee rooms in the old Alexandra Club rooms over Challoner & Mitchell's.

Work was started last night by Murray and McKinnon on the coronation arch to be erected near the post office end of the causeway, and almost immediately work will begin on another in front of the Parliament Square.

DRUGGISTS MEET IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

New Westminster Scene of Twenty-First Meeting—Victoria Man to Be President

The twenty-first annual meeting of the B. C. Pharmaceutical Association opened in the Odd Fellows' hall, New Westminster, at 2 o'clock Wednesday, following the semi-annual council meeting held at the Russell hotel in the morning.

The annual meeting was thoroughly representative, druggists from the upper country, Vancouver and Victoria being present. Frank J. MacKenzie, M. L. A., presided. The election of councillors to replace the three retiring automatically every year resulted in the re-election of R. R. Burns, Vancouver; J. L. White, Greenwood, and John Cochrane, Victoria. These, with E. S. Knowlton, Frank J. MacKenzie and J. H. Emery, comprise the council for the ensuing year.

Among matters discussed was the appointing of a delegate from the association to the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association, which meets in Montreal in September, and Frank J. MacKenzie was the unanimous choice of the meeting.

Immediately after adjournment at 4 o'clock, Frank MacKenzie invited the whole gathering to participate in an excursion on the new line of the electric railroad to Huntington, an invitation gladly accepted by the druggists and a number of ladies.

The annual banquet was held at 7 o'clock at the Russell hotel, and some 60 or 70 druggist, drummers, wholesalers and press representatives sat down to a sumptuous repast. Speeches followed, the newly-elected president, John Cochrane, Victoria, acting as toast master, assisted by the vice-president, John L. White, Greenwood. Among those who spoke were J. D. Taylor, M. P.; R. G. Macpherson (formerly a druggist and M. P. for Vancouver and now postmaster of Vancouver); Dr. Clayton, Prince Rupert; Sheriff Armstrong, New Westminster (an ex-druggist); Dan Dockis, of the N. D. Co., Vancouver; J. A. Teporten, Vancouver, and many others. J. G. Brown, Victoria, kindly contributed several songs, which greatly enhanced the evening's enjoyment.

John Cochrane and Joseph H. Emery returned last evening from New Westminster and are enthusiastic in their praise of the mainland druggists' hospitality. They say that the next annual meeting, which is to be held in June, 1912, in Victoria, will have to be something worthy of the Capital City, the birthplace of the B. C. Pharmaceutical Association.

—The North Ward juniors defeated the Knights on the Heywood Avenue diamond last evening by a score of 7 to 5.

CAMPAIGNERS' SMOKER.

Enjoyable Affair at A. O. F. Hall—Imperial Veterans Were Guests.

A very enjoyable smoker, at which the local branch of the Imperial Veterans of Canada were guests, was held by the British Campaigners Association in the A. O. F. Hall last evening. Some sixty members of both associations were present and a pleasant evening was passed. Major Wilson occupied the chair.

Preceding the smoking concert the regular monthly meeting of the British Campaigners Association was held. A joint committee, W. Winkle, H. A. Treen and W. Wilson of the Veterans and Mr. Warren, Sergeant-Major Edwards and Mr. Baynton, of the Campaigners, was appointed to arrange the details of the parade for the pageant on June 22, Coronation Day.

Owing to lack of time the parade which was to have been held last evening was postponed until this evening, when the combined associations will line up at the city hall in order to make sure that nothing is lacking as regards equipment. All details of the parade on Coronation Day will be published later.

—To-morrow afternoon, commencing at 2.30 o'clock, the Capital Gun Club will hold its regular practice shoot at the Willows traps.

—The court of appeals has upheld Chief Justice Hunter's ruling in Kellett vs. B. C. Marine Railway Company, setting aside the verdict of a jury which gave the plaintiff $3,700 damages for the loss of an eye, while in the employ of the defendants. The ground on which the chief justice set aside the verdict was that there was no negligence shown on the part of the company, which contributed to the accident. The court of appeal, upon the evidence, was of the same opinion and dismissed the appeal. J. A. Aikman argued the case for the plaintiff-Appellant, and H. B. Robertson for the company.

NEWS OF SPORT

CHANGES BEING MADE IN ISLANDERS TEAM

Manager Wattelet and Directors Working Hard to Bring Players Into Shape

Changes are constantly being reported in the line-up of the Islanders and will continue until the team has been brought into such shape as will render it capable of winning its share of the games. Manager Wattelet and the directors are working indefatigably to strengthen their club for, although they do not expect to come out on top, they have not by any means given up hope of getting together a team able to make a creditable showing.

Two of the changes that have made considerable difference are these at first base and behind the bat. McMurdo has not only been fielding his position well, but has also been hitting the ball hard and Spiesman's work at backstop is beyond reproach. There are still several weaknesses, however, at short, left field and in the pitching staff and these, the management reports will be strengthened as soon as an opportunity is afforded.

In a letter to President McPherson received yesterday Manager Wattelet stated that he had signed on a pitcher from the western league. He did not divulge his name but mentioned that while working for Kansas City last year the new man won 30 out of 35 games.

The manager further states that he is trying to get Clementson back. The husky collegian is playing in the Washington State league and is batting over .400. If he can secure Clementson the big fellow will in all probability, be used some place in the field. He hopes to land a short stop and another pitcher shortly.

Pitcher Brown and Catcher Roche, the latter of whom has been dismissed and taken back several times already, have been let out and Pitchers Belford and Sage are in line for their walking tickets. Sage has not been doing badly, but his work is not worthy of the highest-priced pitcher on the team. Lane will not be let go entirely, but will be paid his expenses and allowed to rest for the remainder of the season. The management wishes to keep strings on him as, when in condition, he is undoubtedly one of the best pitchers in the league.

Two hundred thousand steel workers are idle at present in the United States.

VANCOUVER DOWNS ISLANDERS AGAIN

Triple Play on the Part of the Beavers Feature of Yesterday's Game

The Vancouver Beavers hit McCreery freely yesterday and, with the aid of a little luck and some fast fielding, won from Victoria, 11 to 6. Engle was batted hard, but good work in the infield cut the Islanders out of several runs. In the second inning, with the bases full, the Beavers turned a triple play. Brashear was injured while sliding into third base and retired, Streib taking his place.

CRICKET

An interesting cricket match took place yesterday on the Victoria C. C. grounds between the combined forces of H. M. S. Shearwater and H. M. S. Algerine, and a team captained by Major Beale.

The major sent in Cane and Tunnard to face the bowling of Doe and Mason. Cane seemed to be much at home when he unfortunately pulled a wide ball into his wicket. Two wickets fell in rapid succession, bringing in C. Coates to partner R. R. Hincks, who was playing well. Coates opened up his account with a three and three fours when an appeal for l. b. w. by the bowler was sustained. The retiring batsman was recalled not only by Vice-Captain Morrell, but by the entire field, because the ball did not touch the batsman's person but went into the slips off the bat. Nevertheless the bowler and umpire were justified in their appeal and decision.

After the score had been carried from 30 to 86 Hincks having played a stirling innings of 29, was clean bowled by Doe. The newcomer gave the bowlers considerable trouble and was finally disposed of by a beautiful catch by Butcher in the slips. Telegraph 128-5-15. The remaining batsmen caused no sensations, the innings closing for 153. Coates, by his score of 66 not out, is eligible to the honored "has-been's club," even though Lt. Morrell upset his stump on a no ball.

There were no ducks in the navy batting list but Mason and Cooper were the only stayers. Mason gave an excellent exhibition of batting, without a chance, for 41. Lt. Morrell fell a victim to a long running outfield catch by Rithet, and Commander Vivian was taken at cover point by Cane on a sliding-to-second dive. Indeed, the fielding on both sides was excellent, every chance being accepted. Mason's not out innings and Hincks taking five wickets for 24 runs were the features of the innings. The navy made a creditable draw, having two wickets in hand.

Thanks to Major Beale and the courtesy of the V. C. C., the game, the tea, so charmingly served, refreshments, and smokers were enjoyed by the contestants and spectators, of whom there were many, alike.

BILLIARD EXHIBITION.

George Sutton to Execute Seemingly Impossible Shots—Plays Broadfoot To-night.

An exhibition well worth the attention of anyone at all interested in pool or billiards will be given in the C. & C. pool room to-morrow afternoon, when George H. Sutton, ex-champion of America, will demonstrate the simplicity of many seemingly difficult American billiard shots.

The marvellous dexterity with which Mr. Sutton handles a cue with the stumps of his arms is alone worth witnessing, but when, with those stumps, he executes shots one would think almost impossible it becomes absolutely wonderful. To quote the most renowned billiardists in America, "If he only had arms there is no one in the world who could touch him at his game."

To-night Sutton will play pool with Archie Broadfoot, easily the best exponent of the game in the province, and although Broadfoot, with a handicap of 25, beat him out on Tuesday the professional confidently hopes to turn the tables to-night. The fact that he can give Briadfoot a handicap and then run him close is another instance of Sutton's almost unbelievable ability to control the balls, especially when it is considered that until the last week or so he never played pool.

EMBEZZLER ANXIOUS TO GIVE HIMSELF UP

Desire of Fugitive to See Wife and Children Causes Him to Surrender

Detroit, Mich., June 15.—After calling up the police department three times to learn whether a warrant for his arrest on an embezzlement charge had been issued at Walla Walla, Wash., Reuben Kreatz, 27 years old, was informed late yesterday that he was wanted and promptly came to the police headquarters, where he admitted embezzling $1,200 from the Pacific Light and Power Co., of Walla Walla, while he was auditor.

Anxiety to see his wife and children caused him to surrender himself, he said. Kreatz says he left Walla Walla a month ago, having lost the company's money in unsuccessful investments. He refused to inform the Detroit police of his whereabouts until informed that he was wanted.

CABLE RATES.

Discussion At Imperial Conference Proposed State-Owned Atlantic Cables.

London, June 16.—Hon. Andrew Fisher, premier of Australia, advocated at the imperial conference yesterday the nationalization of the Atlantic cable in order to cheapen and render more effective communication between Great Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and by thus acquiring the complete control of the telegraph and cable lines to secure an All-Red route.

Sir Joseph Ward of New Zealand, advocated state-owned cables between England and Canada, the reduction of the cable rates throughout the empire and the establishment of a chain of British state-owned wireless stations.

Both resolutions were withdrawn later on in favor of one proposed by the postmaster-general of Britain to the effect that if the owners of the Atlantic cables could not see their way clear from time to time to reduce cable rates the various dominion governments would consider the practicability of laying state-owned Atlantic cables.

TRIES TO END LIFE.

Toronto, June 16.—With a ticket for England and over $100 cash in his pockets, Edward J. Boswell, aged 37, of Haileybury, Ont., became insane yesterday and hanged himself from the side of the Queen street bridge over the Don river. Fortunately the strap which he had fastened about his neck broke, and he dropped some sixteen feet into the river. He was rescued and removed to the general hospital. He was transferred later in the day to the asylum. Boswell, who is interested in mining in the Cobalt district, arrived in the city a couple of days ago bound for the coronation.

FIGHT WITH BOY BANDIT.

Lad Suspected of Holding Up Saloons Declares He Will Not Be Taken Alive.

Vallejo, Cal., June 16.—After a series o running battles with officers of three counties yesterday, Frank Melville, believed to be the boy bandit who has held up a dozen saloons in Stockton, Martinez and Livermore in the last two weeks, was surrounded last night in a swamp on Carquinez Straits. It is thought Melville's ammunition is almost exhausted and it is believed his capture is certain.

Melville was traced to Vallejo through a pet snake he was carrying. Officers following him from the town exchanged a volley of shots with the lad, but he eluded them. Early yesterday he was seen near Glen Cove, and replied to a command to surrender by a fusilade from his pistal. He was finally forced to take refuge in the swamp. Melville repeatedly shouted to his pursuers that he would never be taken alive.

TOO ENGLISH FOR GERMANS

Kaiser Exhibits Many British Preferences—Is Popular in England

It is a curious fact that while Germany is more thoroughly distrusted in England than any other nation, the Emperor of Germany is one of the most popular of the foreign monarchs who visit London. There is no German scare at the present, and undoubtedly the feeling of uneasiness over German intentions that was so pronounced a couple of years ago manifested itself in some absurd shapes. Nevertheless, it would be idle to pretend that Germany is liked by the average Englishman, and the Government that shaped its foreign policy on the assumption of any particular friendship between the two peoples would be dismissed from office as soon as the opportunity arose. The conviction that Germany is essentially a military country, that she wants more territory, and that, should occasion arise, she would seize what she wanted without any regard to any British interest, is a settled one. The peace talk of twenty years would hardly remove it.

"The Kaiser as an Englishman" is the arresting title of an article in the London Chronicle. Its purpose is to show from authoritative sources that Emperor William is a friend of England and an admirer of the English. "I am so very glad you like him," once said Princess Christian to Bishop Wilkinson; "he has never been understood in England." This was one of the Kaiser's English aunts who spoke of him thus, and the Kaiser's brother, Prince Henry, in conversation with an English admiral, remarked: "Ah, there's a fine fellow for you! You English don't appreciate him; you mistrust him. But, take my word for it, he's one of the finest fellows in the world." So also thought the late Admiral Lord Frederick Kerr, whose son, Captain Lord Mark Kerr, when toasting the Emperor on board his battleship at Corfu, said: "My father used to say about your Majesty that God had created a great emperor out of a man who would have been a great admiral." Perhaps it is the Kaiser's love of the sea that made him so popular with the British naval officers with whom he came in contact. No Englishman ever loved it better.

Students of heredity say that the Kaiser is his mother's rather than his father's son, and everyone knows that his mother was an English princess. It is from his mother that he derives his brain and his staunch moral character, for none of the Hohenzollerns, except Frederick the Great, was much distinguished for his intellect. Nor should Englishmen forget that when the time came William avenged the slights put upon his English mother by the man who was thought to have been the greatest German of his generation, namely, Bismarck. Shortly before her death the Dowager Empress said to a friend: "My comfort amidst the pain I have to endure is the consciousness that my son is entirely on the side of my native country in this (the Boer) war." Thrice in the course of that struggle did the Emperor, at the cost of much personal popularity at home, visit England to condole with his royal relatives in their various national and personal afflictions. On one of these occasions the bishop of London, on the suggestion of the then Prince of Wales, preached a sermon at Sandringham on the necessity of friendly relations between England and Germany and the United States. After the service the Emperor said: "That was excellent; it is just what I am trying to teach my people."

The famous Kruger telegram, that gave so much offence to the people of Great Britain at the time of the Jamieson Raid, was subsequently explained in a manner that showed it to have been without political significance, and is now generally set down as an illustration of the impulsive, warm-hearted nature of the Kaiser. Of the equally memorable communication to Lord Tweedmouth, Prince Buelow, speaking in the Reichstag, said: "If in this connection we consider the Emperor's letter to Lord Tweedmouth, in which one gentleman speaks to another, and the fact that the Emperor prizes most highly the honor of his rank as admiral of the British fleet, and that he is a great admirer of English education, of the British navy, and of the British people, then we obtain a perfectly correct idea of the tone, tendency and contents of the letter." There can be little doubt that in Germany many of the people are inclined to grumble because the Kaiser is too English in his tastes.

The British ambassador in Berlin is on rather a different footing with his Majesty from the other ministers. On one occasion Sir Frank Lascelles was awakened to find the Emperor standing by his bed. "The surprise quite took my breath away," says Lascelles, "and all I could ejaculate was, 'God bless me!' I essayed to rise, but the Emperor pushed me back into bed. 'At least, your Majesty must allow me to give you a cigarette,' I said. The Emperor took one, and sat there talking on the edge of the bed for half an hour." On another occasion, when Sir Arthur Sullivan was summoned to Osborne, where the Kaiser was visiting his grandmother, the Emperor met the brougham, opened the door, and jumped in beside Sir Arthur, singing "And he polished up the handle of the big front door." The Emperor's favorite authors are British—Kipling, Marryat, Haggard; his favorite sports are English sports; and when his daughter said the other day, "I want to be English," she spoke in the full consciousness that the aspiration was one that would meet her father's most hearty approbation.

FAVORS ARBITRATION.

Edinburgh, June 16.—In connection with the National Peace Congress, which is sitting here this week, a notable demonstration was held yesterday in support of Anglo-American arbitration. Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary; the Archbishop of Canterbury, Lewis Harcourt, secretary of state for the colonies, and Andrew Carnegie sent messages, wishing success to the movement. Arthur Ponsonby, M. P., submitted a formal peace resolution which was supported by the Japanese and American delegates and carried unanimously.

CHARGE AGAINST POLICEMEN.

Montreal, June 16.—Four local policemen have been summoned on the charge of accepting bribes to allow thieves to escape.

The man who burns his bridges behind him when he starts out to look for trouble is foolish. On second thought, a man who looks for trouble is foolish anyway.

GRIEF CAUSES SUICIDE.

Hamilton, Ont., June 16.—Grief over the death of his wife, who expired Tuesday, caused William Lochman, 73 years old, to commit suicide yesterday at his home on York street, within a few feet of where lay the body of his life companion for over fifty years. He had clung to the coffin all day, and sobbed as if his heart would break. Shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday morning his daughter missed him. A search revealed his dead body hanging from a rafter in the basement.

SUICIDE AT TORONTO.

Toronto, June 16.—Suspicions that John Daltak, the thirteen-year-old Chinese boy, a son of a Vancouver tea merchant, who was found hanging in his uncle's laundry, had been murdered, were dispelled at the inquest yesterday. The evidence showed that the boy was lonely for the rest of the family, all except the father being in China. The uncle had always treated him kindly.

OWEN'S EXPLANATIONS.

London, June 16.—Dr. Orville Owen of Detroit, who has been searching the river Wye for the manuscripts of the Shakespearean plays which he believes were hidden by Bacon, has made a new discovery in his explorations which he asserts fits in with his cipher. It is a triangular stone enclosure thirteen feet high under Chepstow castle. It was hidden under eight feet of clay, and at high tide covered by several feet of water. He said he believes this to be the long-sought cache.

If I had my way the word "Insure" should be written above the door of every cottage in the kingdom. I am convinced that, at a sacrifice inconceivably small, and one well within the reach of even the poorest man in regular work, security could be provided against catastrophes which would otherwise mean utter ruin.—Hon. Winston Churchill.

TO REGULATE IRON OUTPUT.

New York, June 16.—It is announced that iron and steel manufacturers of the world will meet in Brussels next January in an international congress to discuss a world-wide agreement for making stable the market for British products. American, British, German, French and Belgian interests are to be represented. The meeting, according to cabled advices from Brussels, is at the suggestion of E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation. It is understood that American delegates propose to present a scheme for regulating the output in proportion to the demand with a view to enforcing a balance of prices.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of the lowest low water in each month of the year. This level is half a foot lower than the datum to which the soundings on the Admiralty chart of Victoria are reduced.

BRINGS LARGE CARGO ACROSS FROM ORIENT

Tacoma Maru Arrives in Port With 5,000 Tons—Good Passenger List

Laden with one of the largest cargoes that she has ever brought across the Pacific to Victoria and Puget Sound ports, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Tacoma Maru, Capt. Yamamoto, arrived at the outer wharf late yesterday afternoon. She had 5,000 tons of general freight stowed in her spacious holds, which on the majority of the trips from the Orient do not contain much more than three thousand tons, and although Seattle and Tacoma will receive the greater part of this, the amount discharged here was a substantial increase over past shipments, which proves that Victoria is each day being brought more and more before the eyes of shippers in the Orient.

The sulphur shipment brought by the Tacoma helped to swell the freight list for this port to such large figures. Altogether there were 500 tons of freight for Victoria and of this there were 2,000 sacks of sulphur. Besides this she has the regular cargo of beans, rice, matting, porcelain and many chests of tea.

As well as having a big cargo the Maru also brought a large number of passengers from Yokohama and Kobe. She had six cabin passengers, including Miss Luda Williams, Miss Lillian M. Pool, Kobe; Miss Corart, Yokohama; and Mr. and Mrs. Andre Gaudet, Yokohama, who left the ship here. One hundred and forty-six Chinese and eleven Japanese disembarked here and seventeen Orientals were bound for Tacoma.

Splendid weather was encountered by the Tacoma Maru in making the passage, she experiencing only two unpleasant days, one when a short distance from the Japanese coast and the other when Vancouver Island was nearly in sight. Thick fogs hovered about the ship on these days, but as the vessel sped on she left the disagreeable weather conditions behind her.

Capt. Yamamoto, the well-known skipper of the Tacoma Maru, reports that the Chinese empire is now conducting a vigorous campaign in building a navy which will soon be one of the most powerful in the world. He states that the following warships are now under construction: One 20-knot cruiser, 2,860 tons, in Camden, N. J.; one 30-knot torpedo cruiser 3,400 tons, in Austria-Hungary, and another in Italy; two light-draught river gunboats, 144 feet long, in Stetin, Germany, and two small gunboats 800 tons, in Japanese shipyards.

VESSELS TO HAVE OIL.

Naval Department Decides to Equip Ships With Burners—Frisco News.

San Francisco, Cal., June 16.—The Japanese steamer America Maru left on Wednesday for Hong Kong, the Western Fuel steamer Thor sailed for Nanaimo, the Alaska Pacific steamer Buckman for Puget Sound ports, the steam schooner Charles Nelson for Puget Sound ports, the steamer Massachusetts for Tacoma and the Norwegian steamer Cuzco for Seattle and Tacoma.

The only arrival from the Sound was the schooner Stimson from Ballard.

The schooner E. B. Jackson, now on the way up from Callao, has been chartered by W. R. Grace & Co., to load lumber on Grays Harbor for the west coast of South Africa.

The navy department has definitely decided to use oil instead of coal for fuel on all the vessels of the Pacific fleet, and to establish oil supply depots either at San Pedro or San Diego.

BASIS FOR SETTLEMENT.

Believed That Agreement Will Be Reached Shortly at Sealing Conference.

Washington, June 16.—The indications are that an agreement will be reached by the international seal conference on the basis of a reasonable compensation by America and Russia to Canada (as represented by Great Britain) and Japan for the relinquishment by them of the right of taking of seals at sea, a certain proportion of the profits derived from the killing of seals on the rookeries being diverted for that purpose.

The meeting of the conference arranged for yesterday was postponed until next Saturday, because of British Ambassador Bryce's temporary absence from Washington.

WIRELESS APPARATUS ABOARD TACOMA MARU

Was Equipped While in Orient —Did Not Communicate With Local Stations

Every steamship which arrives here from the Orient from now on will be equipped with wireless. Although the new wireless act of the United States does not go into effect until July 1 none of the liners due after this date are scheduled to sail from Sound points until after the first of next month. Three lines in the trans-Pacific trade, the Blue Funnel, Osaka Shosen and Weir, are affected by this regulation, the others having been equipped with the apparatus for some time.

Yesterday afternoon as the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Tacoma Maru tied up at the outer wharf it was noticed that while the vessel has been in the Orient she had been in the hands of wireless fitters, having the antennae strung between her masts. It was not thought that the Tacoma would come to this port with the telegraphic instruments aboard, as she does not come under the regulations, sailing from the Sound prior to the date the act comes into force.

Although the Tacoma Maru was equipped with wireless none of the Dominion government stations picked up any messages from her, and it was explained on the arrival of the ship yesterday that at present there is no operator aboard. The Panama Maru, the next of the Osaka boats to arrive here, will be able to hold communication with the land stations, according to the regulations each boat must have a competent operator.

The Tacoma Maru being the flagship of the fleet, inaugurated on her arrival the new schedule of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha. Hereafter a twelve-day service is to be given instead of a semi-monthly, as has been the case in the past.

READY FOR SAILING WITH LUMBER CARGO

Barque Holt Hill Will Race With Freida Mahn to Africa —Leaves To-morrow

Riding at anchor in the Royal Roads is the British barque Holt Hill, Capt. Braze, which arrived here early this morning in tow of the tug Lorne from the Fraser River Mills. She commenced shortly after her arrival to take on stores and supplies and her skipper expects to weigh anchor to-morrow afternoon and get clear of Cape Flattery before dark on his long trip to Delagoa Bay, South Africa, for which port the Holt Hill has nearly two million feet of lumber.

The Hill will be a contestant for honors in a friendly little ocean race between the Fraser river and the Dark Continent with the German ship Freida Mahn, bound for Cape Town. The latter ship set sail a week ago yesterday and will have a nine-day start on the British vessel. Despite this fact Capt. Braze states that he will overhaul the German boat before she reaches Cape Horn. The Holt Hill is a larger ship than the Mahn and will stand harder driving than her rival. Capt. Braze is leaving this port with the intention of making the run to Delagoa Bay within one hundred days. Mrs. Braze and her daughter will accompany Capt. Braze on his passage, having arrived from England a short time ago.

About six weeks ago the Holt Hill arrived here from Iquique after setting a new record for the distance. Having one record to his credit Capt. Braze now intends seeking more and will drive the Holt Hill to Delagoa Bay through every gale with all the sails that her masts and hull will stand. The ship is ready for sea and will get away early to-morrow afternoon.

Another vessel of the Hill line, the Marlborough Hill, which loaded lumber at Hastings mills, Vancouver, has sailed for England.

STAUNCHEST VESSEL IN COASTWISE TRADE

Prince John Will Be Splendid Addition to Fleet—Description of Vessel

British Columbia shipping will receive a welcome addition to its ranks when the new Grand Trunk Pacific steamer Prince John arrives here the last of next month. The vessel will be one of the staunchest on this coast, and she will need to be, for her route, from Queen Charlotte Islands to Prince Rupert, at present served by the Prince Albert, is one of the hardest on the coast, abounding in shoals and projecting rocks.

The steamer is 185 feet long, 30 foot beam, and 13 feet 3 inches moulded depth, built of steel and classed 100 A1, with a star at Lloyds. She has seven watertight bulkheads with double bottom, affording ample ballast and fresh water storage, large bunkers, two multitubular Scotch boilers, triple expansion engines, capable of a speed of 12 knots under full loaded conditions, and an extremely moderate fuel consumption. The vessel has been modelled to stand the heaviest weather, and is a remarkable sea boat.

In addition to a large and well arranged steerage quarters for 150, she has first class accommodation; a very neat and comfortable smoking room finished in fumed oak with leather upholstery, and buffet in connection. This is accessible only from first class quarters. The dining saloon, seating 44, is done in mahogany with crimson upholstery and drapings, and is situated on the anchor deck. Attached to it is a large pantry and gallery, conveniently laid out and fitted with all modern equipment necessary to a first class service. The chief steward's offices and men's washrooms are located also on this deck.

The dining room is reached by a mahogany stairway leading from the lounge room on the shade deck, into a well proportioned and airy vestibule, also mahogany panelled and decorated. The principal stateroom accommodation is situated on the shelter deck, and consists of 18 two-berth staterooms of large size, well ventilated and all having outside windows. These rooms are furnished with folding lavatories, spring berths and hair mattresses.

Forward of this is a very neat semi-circular observation room, with large plate glass windows, done in white and gold, finished with wicker chairs. This room is the most attractive feature of the steamer. Above this is the pilot house and officers' quarters.

On the after part of the lower deck there is ample promenading space for steerage passengers, and on the shade and upper decks there is ample shelter and lounge space for first class passengers.

The ship has a cargo capacity of 450 tons, in addition to her bunkers, and altogether it is expected that she will be a very convenient and comfortable ship, well adapted for the purpose for which she is intended. It is probable that she will arrive on the coast the latter part of July, and will, as soon as possible thereafter be placed in commission on the Prince Rupert-Queen Charlotte Islands route.

STRATHEARN'S BIG CARGO.

Taking on 4,000,000 Feet of Lumber at Seattle—Sails Saturday.

With four gangs of busy longshoremen working at top speed the task of loading approximately 4,000,000 feet of lumber on board the big British steamship Strathearn, which was commenced at Seattle several days ago, now is nearing completion. The first of the Strathearn's lumber cargo, which is destined for Australia, was taken on at the Schwager-Nettleton mill at West Seattle and the last of her freight is being shipped at Tacoma. More than fifty men are engaged loading the vessel which is expected to get away Saturday evening. The Strathearn will proceed directly to Newcastle, N. S. W., and from there will go to Adelaide and Port Pirie to discharge.

The Australian demand for lumber steadily is increasing, according to the officers of the Strathearn. The lumber is needed for mining and building purposes and in both those industries there is much activity in Australia at present. With prospects still brighter for the future, other vessels of the same line are on the way to Puget Sound to load lumber. The next of these to arrive will be the Strathbeg. The Strathardle recently steamed from the Sound with lumber for the Antipodes. The Harpeake is on the way from Newport News to Seattle and the Courtfield is due from Baltimore.

The Strathearn was on Puget Sound two years ago. On her last voyage to the Pacific coast the Strathearn carried a deck load of oak logs from Japan to San Francisco, a fact that caused considerable amazement in ship circles. The old saying, "carrying coals to Newcastle," aptly describes this shipment.

The Allan liner Victorian from Liverpool arrived at Quebec this morning, and will dock at Montreal to-night.

The new Northern Steamship Co.'s SS. British Empire, which arrived from Grangemouth, Scotland, on Monday after a series of exciting adventures, last evening sailed from Vancouver for Prince Rupert and way ports.

When leaving the Long wharf at Oakland recently the steam schooner Charles Nelson's wheel fouled the cable which makes telephonic communication possible between San Francisco and Oakland. It was necessary to stop the Nelson, as the cable became badly entangled in her propeller. The Nelson's skipper was about to order the cable cut away when he was interrupted by a representative of the telephone company. In order that their service might not be interrupted the company, by due legal process, prevented the steamship men from cutting the cable, and for two days the Nelson lay in the stream with all telephone conversation between Oakland and San Francisco running around her wheel and sternpost.

BURNED STEAMER REFLOATED.

Damage to the Northwest Will Probably Not Exceed $250,000.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 16.—The steamer Northwest of the Northern Steamship Co., which was burned and sank at her dock two weeks ago, has been refloated and will be surveyed to-day by representatives of the marine insurance companies and officers of the line. A hurried inspection of the vessel indicated that the hull had not been seriously damaged, none of the plates having been sprung by the fire. The engines and boilers are also in good condition. The loss, at first estimated at a half million dollars, probably will not exceed $250,000.

Australia's imports for the year 1910 amounted to £58,425,000. Nearly the whole of this sum was made up of manufactured goods.

THE PASSING SHOW

Romano Photoplay Theatre.

The programme of motion pictures at the above theatre is composed of pictures that are all topnotchers, and thrillers as well. "The rescue of Mr. Henpeck," a Thanhouser feature, takes first place and shows the daring chase of Mr. Henpeck's runaway motor car, by the young chaffeur, who finally manages to stop it. The other films to be shown are "The Mexican Girl's Love," a thrilling tale of sunny Mexico. "The Child of the Ranche," a Bison feature, shows the thrilling ride of the 12-year-old son of the rancher, whose horse has run away. Madam Burnett will have a new song, and the Romano trio will be heard in several new selections.

Majestic Theatre.

"The Aztec Sacrifice" is the leading picture on the new bill, and it will be pronounced a classic. In this remarkable Aztec story taken from Prescott's history of the "Conquest of Old Mexico," the Kalem players have secured wonderful results, giving a glimpse of Old Mexico in the time of Emperor Montezuma. "The Lass Who Couldn't Forget," is a love story strongly dramatic. "Who gets the Order," Edison, a lively and laughable comedy purporting to depict the adventures of two ambitious salesmen after the same order. Broken locomotive, unruly automobiles, unmanageable bicycles and slow wagons all play their part, the film ends with everybody happy. "Comrades," a biograph picture dealing with interesting happenings of a pair of those people who never do any work. The play is well acted, and there is much humor in it.

Crystal Theatre.

The programme consisting of four reels of first run pictures for Friday and Saturday in an excellent one. There are six subjects or over an hour's entertainment which cannot be excelled anywhere in the city. Remember the Crystal is well ventilated and cool as your own parlor, you hear good music and are shown courteous treatment. Following is the programme of pictures shown for the first time in Victoria: "Under the Union Jack," "The Champion Swordsman," "Transfusion," a stirring story of a brawny blacksmith's noble sacrifice to save the life of the girl he loves; "The Little Violin Player," "How to Grow Up," "The Squaw's Retribution," a western subject that seldom has had an equal.

Pictures at the Gorge.

Many enjoyed the fine moving picture performance being given at the Gorge park last night. The orchestra played a good programme, and this added to the enjoyment of those who witnessed the pictures. The first film was shown soon after darkness began, a dramatic story in pictures entitled "The Two Brothers." Other striking dramatic pictures were films showing scenes from the well known play by Chas. Reade "Peg Woffington," from "Carmen" and another picture named "In the Watches of the Night." Much laughter followed the presentation of the comical films, one entitled "Billy's Boots," the other "Too Much Protection."

Empress Grand Theatre.

To-morrow afternoon at the matinee the big lions performing at the Grand are to be fed by their trainer, Capt. Ricardo, on eggs and milk, and at the last show to-morrow night will get their regular daily feed of fifty pounds of horse. The male lion is one of the largest animals in captivity, and is only four years of age. The performance for the rest of the week will be a dance in the cage by Mrs. Ricardo, and then a lion hunt by Capt. Ricardo, who will ride the big animal. The other acts at the Empress-Grand are the four dancing bugs, phenomenal and picturesque steppers; Tillie Storke and Perrin Somers are appearing in "Jackson's Honeymoon," and heard in xylophone selections. Caren and Herbert are doing an athletic stunt, and Pearl and Roth offer an attractive song and dance act.

TO GROW HAIR ON A BALD HEAD

BY A SPECIALIST.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair-grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist: Bay Rum, 6 ounces; Lavong de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

"I would not give a fig
For that man's religion
Whose very dog and cat
Were not the better for it."
—Sydney Smith.

I wonder if in Sydney Smith's day people went away to the country in the summer to enjoy themselves and left their cats to starve, and that was what he was thinking about when he wrote those words?

No, I don't suppose so, for I doubt if the summer vacation was an institution in his day—did it ever occur to you, by the way, of what comparatively recent development this now firmly established annual exodus is? Why, it can't be more than fifty years at the most that a summer vacation has been regarded as a necessity.

But I'm sure Sydney Smith would say that again and make it even stronger if he could live to-day and be a witness to some of the torture to dumb animals which is caused by men and women who forget suffering, if they do not have to actually see it.

If a moving picture man could go to all the summer hotels and boarding houses and summer cottages and show a film representing the "cat that's left behind" prowling about dump heaps in the hope of getting a mouthful of nourishment out of some old soup can, being driven away from crumb buckets, growing thinner and more miserable and finally either dying from starvation or being caught in its weakened state by dogs and mauled to death, do you suppose having the suffering they are responsible for actually brought before their eyes would soften some people's hearts any?

I wonder.

A word to the lady who is about to pack her bag for that vacation trip.

Had you intended to put in a hand mirror? If you hadn't, may I suggest that you do? The Lady of Many Travels with whom I vacationated last summer says that she has caused herself more discomfort by omitting that article than any other. The average boarding house or hotel does not supply a hand mirror and not to be able to see one's back hair or the back of one's gown for two weeks, is apt to have a bad effect on the perfection of one's toilet making.

A brush broom is another article which the less travelled woman does not always remember to put in her grip and which the Lady of Many Travels most heartily recommends as a good travelling companion.

Bay rum and cold cream are two more travelling necessities, quite as unwise to omit as your toothbrush, according to her point of view. The washing accommodations on trains and boats and even in many summer places are not always all that they might be and the water is often unpleasantly hard. In this contingency the woman who is armed with a flannel rag and either a bottle of bay rum or a jar of good facial cream (preferably the latter as bay rum is apt to dry the skin), will find herself greatly assisted in doing battle on travel stains.

"Has she any sense of humor?"

"I don't think so. She can look at her hat without laughing."

SHELDON GETS FIVE YEARS IN PRISON

Get-Rich-Quick Wizard is Convicted of Theft at Montreal

Montreal, June 16.—Guilty was the verdict to-day in the case of C. D. Sheldon, charged with appropriating to his own use funds given him by various clients for investment. A sentence of five years in the penitentiary was given immediately.

The judgment was rendered by Judge Langelier who had sat as trial judge in this case in the court of special sessions. Theft was the particular charge on which judgment was rendered.

Chas. D. Sheldon first appeared in Montreal in the fall of 1908 and immediately begun advertising in a small way in certain daily and weekly newspapers. The game in which he posed as an exponent was what is familiarly known in the world of finance as a blind pool. He claimed to be on the inside of the stock market and that he could manipulate stocks and securities in such a manner as practically to guarantee from 20 to 30 per cent. a month on his client's investment. His departure on October 11 created consternation among his depositors, the large part of whom were widows and people in straightened circumstances and could ill afford to lose the money.

On March 27 he was apprehended in Pittsburg by O. R. Hatfield of the Pinkerton Detective Agency and Wm. Elmore of the Pittsburg city detective force. Immediately following his arrest Chief McAskill of the provincial detectives was notified and proceeded to Pittsburg to bring Sheldon back to Montreal.

WARDS AND WESTS

Senior Lacrosse Game Will Be Played To-morrow.

What may possibly be the last senior city lacrosse game will be played to-morrow afternoon either at the Royal Athletic park of the North Ward park, between the Wards and the Wests. If the Wards win they will take possession of the cup for another year, but if the Wests are victorious at least one more game will be necessary. The teams will be:

Victoria Wests—Campbell, goal; Clegg, point; Stiles, cover; Morris, 1st defence; Okell, 2nd defence; Redgrave 3rd defence; Sweeney, centre; Carss, 3rd home; Jenkins 2nd home; Touhy, 1st home; Clute, outside; Lorimer, inside.

North Ward—Boss Johnson, goal; Joe Dakers, point; Doc Noel, cover; Kroeger, 1st defence; Brynjolfson, 2nd defence; McCarter 3rd defence; Humber, centre; Petticrew, 3rd home; Johnson, 2nd home; McDonald, 1st home; McDougall, outside; McGregor, inside.

Alderman Moresby will in all probability referee.

FUSILIERS GO TO BOSTON.

St. John, N. B., June 16.—The St. John Fusiliers, comprising the 62nd regiment, 300 strong, left here by train to-day for Boston to take part in the Bunker Hill day celebration. The regiment is in command of Capt. J. I. MacAvity and is accompanied by the regimental band and drill and bugle corps. The soldiers will remain in Boston several days and during their stay they will be guests of the Massachusetts volunteer militia.

HAMILTON RACES.

Hamilton, Ont., June 16.—Everything is in readiness for the inauguration to-morrow for the annual spring meeting of the Hamilton Jockey Club. The racing will continue for one week, during which eight stake events will be run. A new event will be the coronation day handicap, one mile on the grass, for Canadian owned horses.

SIR WILFRID WILL SAIL ON JUNE 30

Ottawa, June 16.—A letter received here this morning from Hon. L. P. Brodeur, minister of marine and fisheries, states that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will sail for Canada on June 30. Mr. Brodeur will either accompany the premier or return to Canada a week later on the Victorian. This means that Sir Wilfrid will not speak at the Dominion Day dinner, London.

TAKES POISON.

Golden, Colo., June 16.—Lying down in the home he had prepared for his bride to be, Irvin Brown, chief of the Golden fire department, to-day committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. No reason for his act is known. Brown, who was 28 years old, was to have been married in two weeks. In his hand he clutched a note to his sweetheart which read: "Don't cry, it is all my fault. Keep my watch forever. Good-bye all."

EXPROPRIATION SUIT.

Vancouver, June 16.—The V., V. & E. Railway has instituted proceedings to expropriate various properties on the north shore of False Creek in connection with the Great Northern Railway Company's plans for building freight and passenger terminals in the bed of False Creek, east of Westminster avenue. The owners refused to sell at the figures offered by the railway.

OBITUARY RECORD

The funeral of the late Mrs. Annie Moore took place this morning at 8.45 from the Hanna parlors to the Roman Catholic church, where mass was said by Father Laterme. There was a large attendance of friends and many floral wreaths were sent. The pall-bearers were: E. H. Hiscocks, T. Shotbolt, D. E. Campbell and W. Jackson, four well known druggists who had been business associates of the deceased lady's husband. Interment was made in Ross Bay cemetery.

A husband, three children, three brothers, two sisters, a father and mother survive, all residing in Victoria. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon from the Victoria undertaking parlors at 2 o'clock, and from 1340 Johnson street, the family residence, at 2.30. Rev. Gilbert Cook will officiate. Interment will be made in the Ross Bay cemetery.

The funeral of little Bessie Smith took place from the B. C. Funeral Furnishing parlors this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

The spirit which refuses to be daunted, says the London Daily Express, is the spirit which in time conquers all things—even the air.

ORIGIN OF MANY WEDDING CUSTOMS

Traditional Significance of the Ring, Best Man and Other Marriage Accessories

It has been noted that while many brides insist upon the pledge of obedience being left out of the wedding ceremony, they raise no objection to various customs connected with the proceedings that might be supposed to give them greater offence. The reason is, no doubt, that they are not interested in the origin of these customs, and attach no significance to them as to a definite promise to do as their husbands bid them. Moreover, if the wedding customs that recalled woman's inferiority were to be deleted there would be hardly any ceremony left. All marriage customs, generally speaking, are old customs, some of them going so far back into antiquity that they cannot be surely traced, and are survivals of ages when the wife had no status except what her lord and master chose to allow her. The very phrase, "lord and master," which has not yet gone altogether out of date, briefly sums up the position of the husband through the ages when marriage customs were growing up, and before the doctrine of feminism had ever been heard of.

The ring itself is supposed to be a relic from the days when the wife was won by force and was kept by fetters, and its place upon the fourth finger of the left hand is due to an old fallacy. It was supposed that there was a vein from this finger leading straight to the heart, and it was deemed fitting, therefore, that the token of affection should be placed where it could most directly communicate with the "fount of love." Formerly the ceremony connected with the ring was much more elaborate than it is now. At one time the wedding ring was given as soon as the betrothal occurred, taking the place of the modern engagement ring. It was then worn on the right hand, but when the wedding day arrived it was given back to the bridegroom, and he placed it on the fourth finger of the left hand. To the formula, "In the name of the Father, in the name of the Son, and in the name of the Holy Ghost, Amen," the bridegroom would slip the ring successively on the index, the middle and the fourth finger of the bride's left hand, leaving it on the last.

The best man is also a survival from ruder times, when brides were accustomed to rough wooing. He was then, literally, the best man, being chosen by the prospective husband to assist him in the capture of his wife. In those days, when marriage was chiefly a bargain between a suitor and the father of his choice, the former was very often obliged to assume considerable obligations. It happened in those days oftener perhaps than now that two men wanted the same girl. If both were open wooers they would probably settle the matter by the sword, but often a canny lover would remain in the background and permit his rival to make all arrangements with the family. Then, at the last moment, when the party was on its way to the church, the other lover would appear suddenly with his "best man" and a few retainers, beat off the other and carry away the girl. To guard against any such surprise it became the custom for an intending bridegroom to take his "best" man along with him. The question then became one as to which party really had the best men. The one who had invariably had the husband in its ranks.

It is supposed that the old custom of throwing a shoe after the bride originated in the harsher missiles the discomfited wedding party hurled at the Lochinvar of the occasion. After a marriage by capture the wisdom of the husband remaining in concealment for a short while would be apparent, and thence arose the honeymoon. In his "Curiosities of Popular Customs," Walsh notes that he found a trace of these rough traditions in Cardiganshire, Wales. There the bridegroom, when he called for his bride on the morning of the wedding day, was met by a feigned resistance on the part of her family. There was much horseplay and scuffling, and, once inside, the question was to find the bride. She usually disguised herself as an old crone and attempted to slip out unnoticed, thus recalling the rude days when woman's surest protection was aged ugliness. The Welsh bridegroom, having secured his bride and taken her to the church, was then waylaid by a party of her kinsmen and a final scuffle for her possession took place.

The lover's knot is a survival of the days before engagement rings came into fashion. It was then worn on the arms of betrothed couples in order to give notice of the state of affairs between them. It is said that the very word "wed" was originally the name of the security or bond the lover gave to the father of his sweetheart that he would marry her. This token was frequently bestowed in childhood. In earlier days it was common for the husband to vow to administer reasonable castigation to "his wife and apprentices," and there were many who did not fail in this duty. There still stands on the records the decision of a Welsh court as to what constitutes "reasonable castigation." It holds that three blows with a broom stick on any part of the anatomy except the head are reasonable, and there is another decision to the effect that the proper weapon for administering this castigation should be a stick not longer than a man's arm or thicker than his middle finger.

FIFTY FOREIGNERS ROAM THE STREETS

Witnesses in Prince Rupert Trials Penniless and Without Food

A troop of men, Montenegrins and Servians, fifty in number, marched out to Beacon Hill park last night to sleep, having no place to go and no friends in town but John Mooney, of Prince Rupert and Theodores Cahinos, 507 Fanson street. They were brought from Prince Rupert by the defence in the recent Prince Rupert strike trials and, having given evidence, were not needed further.

Beacon Hill was too cold for the men and they came back to the city and were finally given a night's resting place in the rear of the premises occupied by Cahinos. The men complain that they have not been paid witness fees, that they are without money, and most of them have had nothing to eat since Thursday morning.

The provincial government, in having the trials moved to Victoria, granted transportation for the defense witnesses, and when the case was concluded offered them transportation back to Prince Rupert. The men refused to go without receiving witness fees, and the defense to the case, having no money and several of the accused being in jail, the men are unable to collect from the right parties. They considered the government should pay them for the time they have been in Victoria. The government has already paid their hotel bills while here.

An application was made to the mayor yesterday afternoon on behalf of the men by John Mooney, who came down with them and was a witness. Yesterday afternoon the city solicitor referred them to the provincial government but the latter, having once offered transportation which was not taken advantage of by the men, is said to have declined to give further consideration to them.

John Mooney says that the men have no money, that they were rushed away from Prince Rupert in a hurry to come to Victoria to give evidence, and that they have left their belongings and clothing in their cabins at the northern port. Many of them have pay due them there but cannot get back to obtain it. The men are further handicapped because they do not speak English.

"Something must be done for them," says Mooney.

IN THE HARBOR OF ATHENS.

"What is that white stuff on the hills, captain?"

"That is snow, madam."

"Is it really? I thought so myself, but a gentleman just told me it was Greece."

CANADA TO ENGLAND.

By Arthur J. Stringer.

[Arthur J. Stringer, the widely-known novelist, poet and short story writer, was formerly a journalist and hails from near London, Ontario. He is author of "Watchers of Twilight," "Pauline," "Epigrams," "The Casual Offender," and other volumes.]

Sang one of England in his island home.
"Her veins are million, but her heart is one";
And looked from out his wave-bound homeland isle
To us who dwell beyond its western sun.

And we among the northland plains and lakes,
We youthful dwellers on a younger land,
Turn eastward to the wide Atlantic waste,
And feel the clasp of England's outstretched hand.

For we are they who wandered far from home
To swell the glory of an ancient name;
Who journeyed seaward on an exile long,
When fortune's twilight to our island came.

But every keel that cleaves the midway waste
Binds with a silent thread our sea-cleft strands.
Till ocean dwindles and the sea-waste shrinks,
And England mingles with a hundred lands.

And weaving silently all far-off shores
A thousand singing wires stretch round the earth,
Or sleep still vocal in their ocean depths,
Till all lands die to make one glorious birth.

So we remote compatriots reply,
And feel the world-task only half begun:
"We are the girders of the ageing earth,
Whose veins are million, but whose heart is one."

ASCOT RACES.

Ascot Heath, Eng. June 16.—Backers had another good day of it when the two favorites were first and second respectively for the Alexandra Plate, the feature event of the closing day of the Royal meeting. The bookies, however, took ample revenge in the Wokingham stakes which was won by the three-year-old sprinter Meleanger.

The Alexandra plate of 1000 sovereigns, added to a sweepstake, four year olds and up, two miles, six furlongs and 85 yards, was won by W. Hall Walker's Royal Realm 11 to 8; Mr. Allery's Base Pointe, 5 to 4, was second and Sir Carl Meyer's Apache, 5 to 1, third.

The Wokingham stakes, a handicap of 800 sovereigns, six furlongs, was won by L. Neumann's Meleanger, 20 to 1; F. W. G. Egerton's Galleon, 10 to 1, was second and H. P. Whitney's Newcastle II, 7 to 1, third.

A GREAT CONVENIENCE.

"You have placed all the large berries on top."

"Yes," replied the affable dealer. "That saves you the trouble of hunting through the box for them."—Washington Star.

PORTLAND MURDERER STILL AT LARGE

Condition Bordering on Panic Exists in Suburb Where Man and Family Were Killed

Portland, Ore., June 16.—This city, especially the district surrounding Ardenwald, is worked up to a condition of nervous excitement that increases to a condition bordering on panic in the vicinity of Ardenwald, the suburb, where occurred the murder of Wm. H. Hill and his family.

In the Ardenwald district a dozen or more families have left their homes to take up at least temporary residence in more thickly settled portions of the city, and those that remain are hysterically apprehensive.

Following a attack on John Dysle, the milkman, early yesterday morning, it was ascertained that for several days a man has been hanging around Dysle's barn, but the milk man seems to have been without suspicions that this fellow could have had anything to do with his neighbor's murder until he himself was attacked.

Search maintained all day yesterday and kept up all last night failed to bring forth any development in the case.

PAYS PENALTY FOR CRIME.

Edward Jardine Executed for the Murder of Lizzie Anderson.

Goderich, Ont., June 16.—Edward Jardine, aged 22, was hanged here this morning at 6 o'clock for the murder of 16-year-old Lizzie Anderson on September 2, her body being stripped and concealed in a vacant house on the outskirts of the town. He had to be given a hypodermic injection of morphine and walked bravely to the gallows. As he stood on the fatal trap he said: "I bid you all good-bye." Durin gthe last few days Jardine had often asserted his innocence. He left a statement, but no confession.

TO MEET AT CALGARY.

Fort William, Ont., June 16.—The next meeting of the Canadian Society of Sanitary and Heating Engineering will be held at Calgary, which city won out over Montreal at this morning's session of the National Convention. L. E. Walsh, Montreal, was elected president; E. J. Young, Calgary, vice-president; John Watson, Montreal, secretary; H. Higginbottom, treasurer.

Mrs. Asker—"Are your laundry bills very high?"

Mrs. Tellit—"No; they charge by the piece, but they lose so many pieces that it keeps down the expense pretty well."

Mollie—"Don't you think a month is a long time to put off our wedding?"

Chollie—"Why, your sister put hers off a month."

"Yes, but that was last fall. The days are getting longer now, you know."

ESKIMO OF THE CANADIAN NORTH

OLD CLASS CONSCIOUS DISTINCTIONS OBTAIN

Romance and Tragedy of Arctic Ice Fields Told by Police

One of the most interesting departments of the annual report of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, presented to parliament before adjournment by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, is that devoted to the Canadian Eskimo living at Herschell's Island. It appears from the report that these people are divided into two tribes, the Kogmollocks and the Nunatalmutes, but the latter are the better of the two in every way. They are the hunters and trappers and in the winter live in the Mackenzie delta and the region back of the mountains. The report adds that "this tribe has a high moral code and looks down on the Kogmollocks for their loose custom in this respect."

The report of Inspector Jennings, commanding the Mackenzie River subdivision, with headquarters at Fort Macpherson, on these Canadian citizens is interesting. He states: "The Kogmollocks are seal hunters and depend entirely on the sea for their living, although in late years they have been doing a little trapping along the coast and on the ice. They are the poorer of the two tribes and generally hard up. It seems impossible to teach them to be provident and to store up for the winter."

Regarding the moral customs of these people, Inspector Jennings says:

"The girls of the Kogmollock tribe mature at a very early age and are generally married at 15. The percentage of female children born is so great that it was a custom in years past for a mother to let a newly-born girl baby die, as it would only be a drag instead of a help to the family. This is not done now, however, and it is well known that native parents are kind and indulgent to their children. These people cannot now do without tea and breadstuffs. Children must have it or probably die. Since their association with whalers the coast natives have never lived or dressed so well. Also they have learned much of the white man's ways, his language, cleanliness, cooking and housekeeping. Most of the igloos are clean, although sometimes the odor from seal and rotten fish is rather strong. Every family has a bath at least once a week, and every Sunday they appear in clean clothes. They take plenty of exercise and are very fond of football. They have no marriage ceremony, the consent of the bride's father being alone sufficient. Last summer four native couples were legally married at Herschell. Later when they found a ship would winter here and that their wives should have nothing to do with the sailors, they remarked, 'Minister like me get married, what for he no give me grub?' The point in question was beyond their comprehension. It is pleasant to note, however, that those married natives stuck to their marriage vows, and, as far as I know, did not revert to their old custom."

In regard to the ancient custom of men loaning their wives to the sailors on the whaling ships, Inspector Jennings, after telling of the restrictions he put into force, adds: "I have talked over this moral question with the Bishop of Yukon, and he agrees with me that it is one which must be handled delicately and with tact. The solution of it is a matter of time, together with the teachings and examples of missionaries and other white men in the country."

Inspector Jennings has a good word to say in conclusion of the Eskimo of that northern territory. He says: "The Eskimo, as a race, are the most interesting of any I have ever seen. They are quick to learn, good manual workers, hospitable in the extreme and are in almost every way the direct opposite of an Indian. I consider a government school similar to that in Alaska an urgent necessity. Men, women and children would attend. These people do not mix with Indians, and come into contact only with the white men. It is essential that they should learn English and the values of trade, if only for their own protection. They themselves are most anxious for this. I have heard an Eskimo father who could speak but little English himself teaching his baby girl to repeat the English alphabet."

A romance of the north is thus dealt with in simple language by Inspector Jennings: "Constable S. Carter was married by the Bishop of Yukon to an Eskimo woman. Constable Carter is retiring on pension and remains in the country. I believe this is the first case of a white man in the Canadian Arctic being legally married to an Eskimo."

It is also interesting to note that Inspector Jennings is strongly in favor of Canadian rations in preference to those of American manufacture. On this point he says: "I am pleased to note that all our provisions were of Canadian manufacture and came from almost every province. Bacon, canned beef and brawn is very much superior to anything of a like kind of American manufacture. I think the same might be said of all the goods."

A tragedy of the ice fields is thus briefly reported: "Fred Moran, deserted from his ship two days after the police patrol left Herschell for Macpherson. He attempted to follow the patrol but never reached the mainland, being found by the police search party from the island, frozen to death on the ice."

In this simple manner is the work of the men who brave hardships on the Empire's outposts set forth. The annual report in question abounds in narratives of the pluck and daring of these men of the Mounted Police, all told with moderation and a touch of modesty which are rarely found in government reports.

WHAT TO EAT AND WHEN TO EAT

Two Important Questions Answered Easily After Reading This.

Every nutritive element of the best white wheat is found in Malta-Vita. This food, famous for health, is whole wheat, first thoroughly cleaned, then steamed, then mixed with finest malt extract, then baked in absolute purity. Thus it is the cleanest, richest, most wholesome breakfast food in the world. The steaming of the wheat gelatinizes its starch and the malt extract rich in diastase, a digestive agent, converts the starch into maltose or malt sugar.

Maltose is great food, and the weakest stomach digests and assimilates it without effort. For many years physicians of high standing have prescribed malt extracts, which contain a large percentage of maltose. Malta-Vita contains from eight to ten per cent. of maltose.

When Malta-Vita comes from the ovens it contains only one per cent. of moisture. The other 99 per cent. is food, brain, bone, nerve and muscle food—most easily digested. Always ready to eat—fresh and crisp, delicious and invigorating. All grocers.

CLEVER PURSE LIFTING.

New Rheumatism Cure Worked on Unsuspecting Traveller.

The progress of the movement towards the enlightenment of Turkish women was indicated in a striking way in a tramway car in Stamboul recently.

In these vehicles a compartment is curtained off for the use of women, who are forbidden by the Koran to associate in any way with men. A German lady who speaks Turkish entered the women's compartment of a Stamboul car and fell into conversation with three black-veiled figures it already contained.

She told them how she suffered from rheumatic pains in her arms. The shrouded Hannuni sitting next to her listened with sympathy. She also, it appeared, had been similarly afflicted, but was now completely cured. Her doctor had recommended her, whenever she rode in a tramway car to hold her arms rigidly straight out in front of her. The jolting of a Constantinople tramway car, operating on the stretched muscles, had a physiological effect that completely eliminated rheumatic trouble.

On the earnest recommendation of her Turkish companion the German lady immediately put this case to test. For a quarter of an hour she rode with arms well stretched straight in front of her. Then the veiled Turkish lady alighted, recommending a continuance of the treatment.

As the adviser disappeared the patient reached for her satchel hanging at her belt, but found that it had gone and with it her purse. By this time the veiled Turkish lady, whose face the other had not even seen, was also out of sight.

NEW VENTURE ON INSURANCE LINES

New York Company Organized to Facilitate Easy Divorce Procedure

Frederick Thompson is to be president of the Divorce Insurance Company, Unlimited. He informed a New York reporter that the corporation papers were being drawn, and within thirty days his new plan would be a reality. He said the company would begin its career with $1,000,000 in the treasury and would have in its directorate a score of men whose names are familiar from Maine to California.

"It is sure to become the most widely discussed business venture the United States has even seen, not excepting Standard Oil or Steel," said he. "First get the title fixed in your mind and then think of life, fire and accident insurance companies. Then the whole scheme of the new corporation must become apparent at a flash.

"The prime purpose of the new concern is to alleviate a most deplorable condition, for it is deplorable that husbands and wives find it necessary to continue living in wedlock because they have not money enough to live apart. Four-sevenths of all the so-called 'happy marriages' would be dissolved overnight if the woman had independent means or if the husband would agree to meet the wife's money demands following a divorce.

"The Divorce Insurance Company, Unlimited, will fix all this. We shall have men and women solicitors, the men to approach brides-elect, the women to sell policies to the bridegrooms-to-be.

"Young Percival Hard-up's engagement to Dorothy Spender has been announced. He is in the seventh heaven, planning how she will make her ten per expand so they may buy terrapin seven times a week. The Divorce Insurance Company, Unlimited, will see the engagement announcement in print. In a day or two one of our women solicitors will call on Percival. She will point out the cold figures as to the happiness-expectancy of marriages contracted at his age and on his income. As I recall it, this expectancy for ten-dollar-a-week clerks of the age of 21 is a trifle more than eighteen months.

"Of course Percival will spurn the idea that his love for Dorothy can grow cold. But our solicitor will point out how simple it will be for him to guard against even so improbable an outcome of his ideal marriage. For a sum as low as 50 cents a week he can take out a policy in the Divorce Insurance Company, Unlimited, which will protect him absolutely.

"At the time he wishes to obtain a divorce or faces a suit by his wife, his policy will guarantee traveling expenses to an easy divorce state, the hiring of efficient counsel and alimony to the victorious party. The Divorce Insurance Company, Unlimited will foot the bills.

"While Percival is being signed up, Dorothy, in her father's home in the Bronx, is hearing virtually the same proposition from one of our men solicitors. Of course, it is to be supposed each policyholder will keep the little secret from the other.

"Not only couples before marriage, but husbands and wives of every age and state may obtain the privileges of the corporation."

Thompson refused to reveal the names of his associates. In the Lamb's Club it was suggested the directorate might include Nat C. Goodwin, De Wolfe Hopper and Lional Lawrence. No one on Broadway doubts that Thompson has 20 well qualified directors.

BIG CATFISH.

What is probably the largest catfish ever captured in an Iowa river was pulled out of the Nishnobatony river by men who were excavating for a foundation for a new dam. The fish weighed 176 pounds. Its mouth was filled with scars and several fish hooks were embedded in it.

State Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss, of New York, declares that within the next ten years insurance will fall into two general classes—companies which insure against hazard to living things and those which insure against hazard to inanimate objects. He also believes that the coming decade will see decided progress in the direction of state insurance.

The destruction of the house fly is a public duty. Almost every American State Board of Health is carrying on a crusade against him.

His filthy origin and habits and the fact that his body is generally laden with disease-producing germs, makes him one of the greatest enemies of the human race.

If the housekeepers of Canada will use

HARBOR RAILWAY YES OR NO TO-NIGHT

Aldermen Have Thought Over Agreement and Will Adopt Their Attitude To-night

The city council of Victoria will meet to-night, when it is understood that its general attitude in regard to the proposed harbor railway will be made known. No decision was arrived at on Tuesday evening because the aldermen were not fully acquainted with the proposed terms of agreement, and it was thought better to sleep over it before subscribing to it.

Exactly what action will be taken it is impossible to conjecture. One thing is certain, however, and that is that the promoters of the scheme will be requested to modify many of their stipulations. At the present time the scheme amounts to no less than a blanket charter to run along side the Causeway embankment and utilize the city street ends in perpetuity.

While favoring the idea of having the waterfront of the city laced up tightly by means of a railroad, Mayor Morley has expressed his objection to giving a blanket charter to any corporation, and stated that he did not intend to do so in this case. From the commercial point of view no argument has yet been brought to bear upon the subject, and in the event of the scheme receiving the endorsation of the council there can be no doubt that it will be this consideration which effects the balance.

From the informal conversation of the aldermen when the project was being discussed for their benefit by the promoters it was gathered that, while none of them were actually opposed to the idea, the necessity for slow and careful consideration of the people's interests weighted with them to the point of wise precaution. Having had the material of thought in their possession since the last meeting of the council, it is probable that a definite attitude will be struck to-night.

POLICE CHIEF RESIGNS

Head of San Francisco Force Steps From Office When Charges Against Him Are Dismissed.

San Francisco, Cal., June 16.—Chief of Police John H. Seymour, who has held office for several days past by virtue of court injunctions, resigned office last night, after all pending charges against him had been dismissed. D. A. White, recently named by the police commission, assumed control of the department when Seymour's resignation had been accepted.

The police department has been the centre of a political storm for more than a month. The struggle in the courts, which ended last night in Seymour's resignation and White's installation, was marked by the resignation of three police commissioners and a bombardment of writs and injunctions, during which time the city had White as an acting chief unrecognized by the courts, and Seymour as a chief with court sanction but no power to act.

At the time of Seymour's resignation there was still pending the hearing of a writ of prohibition in the Superior court by which the police commission was restrained from dismissing Seymour until after a review in the courts.

Seymour gave no reason for his resignation other than to say that he was tired of the struggle. He was for many years a captain in the department, and at the time he was chosen to the chieftainey he was in the employ of an express company. Seymour took charge of the office on October 3, 1910, and made numerous changes in the personnel of the department.

Chief White had been in the employ of the San Francisco Gas & Electric Company. This is his first political appointment.

SUGAR TRUST INQUIRY.

Head of Mormon Church Must Testify Before United States House Committee.

Washington, D. C., June 16.—How the sugar interests combined in first one form and then another, and how the American Sugar Refining Company achieved power in the sugar world was the theme of the story to which the house sugar investigating committee listened yesterday.

In point of interest that story was rivalled in the day's proceedings only by the refusal of the committee to excuse Joseph F. Smith, head of the Mormon church, from responding to the subpoena to testify before the committee. Mr. Smith must appear next week.

By far the most important witness before the committee was Lowell M. Palmer, director of the American Sugar Refining Company from 1899 to 1905, and head of its traffic department for years preceding that.

At the outset of his testimony Representative Madison, of Kansas, who conducted the examination, introduced as a basis of his questions a page from the minute books of the company's board of directors. It bore the date of September 6, 1898, and its paramount feature was the authorization of a committee to buy outside refineries.

With this as a basis from which to get at the policy of the American Sugar Refining Company, Judge Madison questioned the witness about the first combination of sugar refineries in 1887, and combinations or acquisitions during the period Mr. Palmer was a director. Incidentally, the witness told of the rebates received by the company, claiming it had merely got its share of the rebates in the days when such were in fashion. He also defended as legitimate the company's lighterage charges on transfer of sugar shipments in New York harbor.

Judge Madison questioned the witness concerning the formation of the National Sugar Refining Company of New York.

CHINA'S BABY RULER.

At a recent audience in the Imperial Palace, Pekin, which was accorded to the ladies of the diplomatic corps by the Empress Dowager, the really unique feature was the presence of the baby Emperor. It was his first experience with foreign ladies, his first appearance before foreigners since he became Son of Heaven.

Arrayed in court costume he sat upon a throne at the left of the Empress Dowager, his official mother. A sturdy youth of five, bearing a strong facial resemblance to the late Emperor, his uncle, the little Emperor was the embodiment of sedateness and solemnity. If the foreign ladies with their plumes and feathers appeared queer to his eyes, he gave no indication of the fact. He watched the proceedings, but with no show of special interest. Throughout what must have been to him a rather trying ordeal, he sat erect upon the throne, his little silk booted feet scarcely reaching its edge, the picture of Imperial gravity.

Mrs. Highupp—The judge decreed that they should be separated, never to see each other again.

Mrs. Blase—Are they?

Mrs. Highupp—Yes. They are living next door to each other in a New York apartment house now.

FEDERAL ACT TO HIT DRUG HABIT

IMPROPER USE OF OPIUM WILL BE PREVENTED

Text of the Bill Which Was Passed During Present Session

During the present session of Parliament an act was passed aimed at the prevention of the improper use of opium or other drugs. In the schedule to the act the drugs referred to are cocaine, morphine and eucaine, or any salts or compounds thereof, and opium. Additions can be made by order-in-council whenever such addition is felt to be in the public interest. The penal provisions against smoking or being in possession of opium or being in an opium resort will not come into force until July 1, but the rest of the act, which is in the following terms, became law when it received the royal assent on May 19:—

1. This Act may be cited as The Opium and Drug Act.

2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,

(a) "drug" means and includes any substance mentioned in the Schedule to this Act; or which may be added thereto under the authority of this Act;

(b) "opium" means and includes crude opium, powdered opium, and opium prepared for smoking, or in any stage of such preparation;

(c) "imports" or "imported" means and includes the bringing or conveying, or the causing to be taken or conveyed, into Canada of any drug;

(d) "export" or "exporting" means and includes the taking or conveying, or causing to be taken or conveyed, out of Canada of any drug;

(e) "magistrate" means and includes any judge of the sessions of the peace, recorder, police magistrate, stipendiary magistrate, two justices of the peace, or any magistrate having the power of authority of two or more justices of the peace.

3. Every person who, without lawful or reasonable excuse, imports, manufactures, sells, offers for sale, has in his possession, or takes or carries or causes to be taken or carried from any place in Canada to any other place in Canada, any drug for other than scientific or medicinal purposes, shall be guilty of a criminal offence and shall be liable, upon summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and costs, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or to both fine and imprisonment.

4. Every person who smokes opium, or who, without lawful or reasonable excuse, has in his possession opium prepared or being prepared for smoking, shall be guilty of a criminal offence and shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding fifty dollars and costs, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or to both fine and imprisonment.

Any person who, without lawful and reasonable excuse, is found in any house, room or place to which persons resort for the purpose of smoking or inhaling opium, shall be guilty of a criminal offence and shall be liable, upon summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars and costs, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, or to both, fine and imprisonment.

5. Any person who deals in any drug, who gives, sells or furnishes any drug to any person other than a duly authorized and practicing physician, veterinary surgeon or dentist, or to a bona fide wholesale druggist, or to a druggist carrying on business in a bona fide drug store, or who neglects to make or preserve a proper record in a suitable book of the name and address of the physician, veterinary surgeon, dentist or druggist to whom he gives, sells or furnishes any drug, and the date of such sale; and any druggist who gives, sells or furnishes any drug except upon a written order or prescription signed by a duly authorized and practicing physician, veterinary surgeon or dentist, or who, without the authority of the prescribing physician, veterinary surgeon, or dentist, uses any prescription to sell any drug on more than one occasion, or who neglects to make or preserve a proper record in a suitable book of the name of the physician, veterinary surgeon or dentist signing such order or prescription, the date of filling the order or prescription, and in the case of a prescription the name of the person for whose use the prescription was granted, or who refuses to allow such record to be examined by any police officer, shall be guilty of a criminal offence and shall be liable, upon summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars and costs, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or to both fine and imprisonment.

Any physician who signs any prescription or order for the filling of which any drug is required, unless such drug is required for medicinal purposes or is prescribed for the medical treatment of a person who is under professional treatment by such physician, and any dentist or veterinary surgeon who signs any order for any drug, unless such drug is required for medicinal purposes in connection with his practice as a dentist or veterinary surgeon, shall be guilty of a criminal offence and shall, upon summary conviction, be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars and costs, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or to both fine and imprisonment.

6. Any person without lawful or reasonable excuse exporting or attempting to export any drug to any country which prohibits the entry of such drug shall be guilty of a criminal offence and shall be liable, upon summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and costs, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or to both fine and imprisonment.

7. If it be proved upon oath before any magistrate that there is reasonable cause to suspect that any drug is kept or concealed for any purpose contrary to this Act in any dwelling-house, store, shop, warehouse, outhouse, garden, yard, vessel or other place such magistrate may grant a warrant to search by day or night any such place for such drug, and if such drug is there found, to bring it before him.

8. When any person is convicted of an offence against this Act, the convicting magistrate may adjudge and order in addition to any other penalty or punishment, that the drug in respect of which the offence was committed, or which has been seized under the search warrant as aforesaid, and all receptacles of any kind whatsoever found containing the same, be forfeited and destroyed, and such order shall thereupon be caried out by the constable or peace officer who executed the said search warrant, or by such other person as may be thereunto authorized by the said convicting magistrate.

9. Any drug now in the custody of any court, and any drug that may be seized for the violation of any law, shall be destroyed unless such drug is claimed within three months after the passing of this Act, or after such seizure as the case may be, and it is established to the satisfaction of the court that no offence has been committed in connection therewith, or unless the court otherwise orders, provided however, that the provisions of The Customs Act shall apply to any drug unlawfully imported into Canada.

10. If any person charged with an offence against this Act pleads or alleges that he imported, manufactured, sold or offered for sale, or had in his possession, any drug in respect of which the offence is charged, for scientific or medicinal purposes, the burden of proof thereof shall be upon the person so charged.

11. One half of any fine recovered from any person convicted of an offence against this Act may be paid to the person giving information leading to such conviction, if so directed by the magistrate.

12. No conviction, judgment or order in respect of an offence against this Act shall be removed by certiorari into any of His Majesty's courts of record.

13. The Governor in Council may make such orders and regulations as are deemed necessary or expedient for carrying out the intention of this Act; for the seizure of any drug that there is reason to believe is liable to forfeiture under this Act; and for the use or sale of any drug for scientific purposes.

14. The Governor in Council may, from time to time, add to the Schedule to this Act any alkaloids, derivatives or preparations of the drugs named in the said Schedule, the addition of which is by him deemed necessary in the public interest, and every order in council in that behalf shall be published in The Canada Gazette, and shall take effect at the expiration of thirty days from the date of such publication.

CARMAN'S ULTIMATUM.

Must Believe John Wesley or Quit Methodist Church.

At the first general session of the Toronto Methodist Conference in Elm street Methodist church, Rev. Dr. Carman, the venerable superintendent, clearly defined what he considered the proper conduct of a minister who dissented from the Wesleyan doctrines.

Briefly and emphatically Dr. Carman told the Conference that any minister who found himself at odds with John Wesley, on whose interpretations the Methodist Church was founded, should promptly resign his connection. The superintendent did not desire to dispute the right of a free conscience, but rather the right to violate vows taken in full obedience to the Methodist standard.

Dr. Carman mentioned the satisfaction he had experienced while attending the ministerial session of the conference, at which it was made evident to him the sound heart of the Methodist clergy. Whatever the surface indications, the ripples on the wave of progress, the great undercurrent swept on undisturbed.

"I have a wonderful regard for liberty of conscience and of personality. But when a question of the actual corporeal resurrection of Christ is brought up, I claim it was settled by the disciples themselves. Unless that is believed, ye are yet dwelling in your sins."

Dr. Carman looked over a handful of sermons and notes of John Wesley.

"These are what I am held to as a Methodist preacher. They may be wrong, but they are what I took my vows to maintain.

"I have a perfect right to ask myself: Is Mr. Wesley correct?

"If I conclude he is not correct, then my duty is to leave the Methodist Church."

CONSULS CONFER.

Tacoma, Wash., June 15.—Twenty-eight consular representatives of foreign governments are in Tacoma today attending a general conference of consuls stationed in Washington, Oregon, and British Columbia. The consuls of Tacoma and Port Townsend are the hosts. The conference is held behind closed doors.

The chief feature of to-day's session was an address by A. M. Cederbergh, Norwegian vice-consul in Portland, who explained at length the new Oregon law which divorces ship masters and sailor's boarding houses and reduces the maximum bonus or "blood money," as it is commonly known, to $10.

The new law is intended to do away with the evils peculiar to the sailor boarding house system. Mr. Cederbergh was prominent in the Portland fight on the boarding houses and at present is defendant in a $5,000 damage suit for defamation of character.

FEDERALS HAD POOR AMMUNITION

Examination of Cartridges Reveals Defects — Navarro May Be Vindicated

Mexico City, June 16.—When General Navarro is placed on trial before a military tribunal and asked to explain why he surrendered Juarez, it is not improbable that evidence may show a lamentable weakness in the Diaz military machine.

In almost all of the engagements during the late revolution it was notable that the casualties in the ranks of the rebels was small in proportion to the number of shots fired. Ordinarily this was ascribed to poor marksmanship on the part of the federals, but according to Manuel Urquidi, one of the advisers of Madero at Juarez, they captured armament, and that point goes far to explain the apparent weakness of the federal defence.

Urquidi said that when an inventory was taken of the armament used by Navarro it was found that five boxes containing 150,000 rounds of ammunition showed that these cartridges carried not more than 20 meters.

What appear to be boxes of this same consignment are in Chihuahua as well as in Juarez, and the number of cartridges is estimated at half a million. The ammunition was manufactured at the government cartridge factory. Among other armament captured at Juarez, according to Urquidi, were 200 shells of 80 milimeters, which were absolutely useless as far as Navarro was concerned, because the mortars with which he was supplied were of 70 milimeters caliber.

If these statements are substantiated in the trial of Gen. Navarro it is assumed by military men that the honor of the general will be vindicated. It may also be assumed that none will be punished for the apparent conspiracy in stocking the garrison of Juarez with useless armament since the party benefited is that now in power.

REFORMING THE PEERS.

Members of Aristocracy Who Care Nothing for Titles.

Not everyone who is born in the purple and fine linen of the peerage cares for the gilt-edged life that is marked out for him. Lord Hardwicke, for instance, spent several years of his early life in America as a mining engineer.

Young Viscount Dangan, eldest son and heir of Earl Cowley, is the latest to kick the ladder of rank and privilege from under him. Some months ago he tired of his uniform as second lieutenant in the Fifth Lancers then stationed at Dublin, for the glamor of the footlights had gripped him.

"I'm one who must be doing something," he said to a friend, "but I won't do what I don't like doing; no, not for anybody."

Taking the name of Arthur Wellesley, he joined a sketch company that had been playing pantomime in Dublin, and traveled around with them as their stage manager.

After two months spent on tour he got to London and soon found work at $5 a week as assistant in an operatic scene artist's studio. That was in April, and he is now earning $8 a week, having developed quite a talent as a scene painter. Viscount Dangan works nearly twelve hours a day, and looks as little like an heir-presumptive to a peerage in his paint-bespattered clothing as would a sun-tanned fruit picker in California.

His attitude to the political turmoil about the second chamber is summed up with a flippant disregard for the dignity of the peerage:

"I don't care a fig for politics," he says. "I don't care what happens to the House of Lords. Whether I ever enter it, or whether I am debarred by Premier Asquith or Lord Lansdowne or both, it doesn't concern me."

Willie—Say, Pa, you ought to see the men across the street raise a building on jacks.

Pa (absently)—Impossible, Willie. You can't open on jacks, but a man is a fool to try to raise on them—er—I mean it must have been quite a sight.

PROPOSED MINING SCHOOL AT NELSON

Joint Committee of Board of Trade and School Trustees to Prepare Memorial

Nelson, June 15.—Marked progress was made by the joint committee of the board of trade on the question of a mining school, at its first session, and after a lengthy inquiry into the facts before the committee, it was decided to send a memorial to Hon. H. E. Young, minister of education, on the subject. The memorial will set forth that a joint committee of the two bodies named is now working on the problem of instituting a mining department in connection with the Nelson High school, with a dual object in view of giving the youth a technical training that will shorten the engineering course necessary if they take up the profession of mining, and of affording short courses in practical mining subjects for the benefit of miners, mill men, and prospectors. It will also state that a preliminary survey of the ground leads to the conclusion that the necessary building and equipment, beyond high school requirements, would cost at a minimum $20,000, and that the annual upkeep of the mining department would be about $4,000.

Principal Smillie was able to indicate a considerable list of the subjects in the probable curriculum of the mining department that could be covered by an ordinary high school staff, but he said if special classes were held in some of these subjects for the benefit of the prospectors it would be necessary for the instructors to be relieved of some of their present work.

A letter was read from Prof. Milnor Roberts, dean of the mining department of the state university of Washington, which outlined the ground covered by his department. A grant of $700,000 is made for the department by the state legislature at each biennial session.

It was decided to procure still more information respecting the Sudbury mining school, conducted in connection with the Sudbury high school, with one special instructor in mining, which is supported partly by the school board of Sudbury and partly by the government.

The committee will continue to gather information, and particularly go into the matter of cost in detail, both in respect to building, equipment and maintenance. A new high school building will be required at an early date, according to the school board members of the committee, this giving the opportunity to follow the Sudbury plan, and combine the high school and mining school in one.

The members of the committee favor approaching the provincial government at the proper time with a request for assistance.

TO FIGHT WHITE PLAGUE.

New Westminster, June 15.—The campaign against tuberculosis occupied principal attention at the meeting of the Local Council of Women.

The committee, who had called attention to certain moral reforms before the city council, reported the result of their efforts, and a further duty was entrusted to them of urging before the city fathers the necessity of enforcing the civic by-law against expectoration on the streets.

The Ministerial Association will also be approached with a view to an annual sermon being preached on the subject of prevention of the white plague, while steps will be taken to get a physician to lecture on the subject here.

Another matter taken up by the council was the pure milk supply, and the ladies came out strongly for the principle of sealed bottles, hoping the dairymen will come to this solution of the problem.

The various associations in the city working for the establishment of the projected Y. M. C. A. sent in reports, and the matter will have further consideration.

Mrs. Day, provincial vice-president, wrote with reference to the provincial conference, which will be held in this city on September 12 and 13, for which arrangements are now in hand.

A MARTIAL MUDDLE.

Woman Three Times Married is Still Legally the Wife of Her First Husband.

Vancouver, June 15. That Mrs. Eubank, twice divorced, is still the wife of her first husband, J. P. McFarlane, whom she married in Tacoma, Washington, is the opinion of Mr. Justice Clement. The facts came out over an application made in chambers in which Mrs. Eubank claimed the possession of a boy by her second husband Oliver. Oliver refused to give up the boy and Mrs. Eubank claimed that he had no right to hold him as her marriage to Oliver took place within six months of her divorce from McFarlane, which made the marriage illegal under the Washington law.

Mr. Justice Clement stated that after looking into the facts he had come to the conclusion that Mrs. Eubank was still legally the wife of her first husband, McFarlane. It appeared at the time she applied for the divorce McFarlane was in the Philippines, and therefore the divorce should never have been granted under the state laws of Washington.

A. L. Belyea, who appeared for the plaintiff, asked for time to look into this phase of the action, and further hearing was adjourned till Friday.

CASE DISMISSED.

Vancouver, June 15.—That one isolated act does not constitute a man a vagrant was the decision of Magistrate Shaw in dismissing the case against Wm. McKay, a striking carpenter, charged with tearing down a fence at the Corner of Cordova Street and Columbia avenue a week ago. McKay was charged under section "H" of the Vagrancy Act as a loose, idle, disorderly person who tore down the fence in question.

J. W. DeB. Farris, who appeared for the accused, argued, that his client, as a workingman of good character, could not be convicted under the vagrancy act for a solitary offence; vagrancy was a term that indicated a repetition of offences.

Magistrate Shaw said he had gone carefully into the matter, and having in mind that the Criminal Code provided punishment for this offence under the sections relating to mischief, he had to dismiss the action as it was laid.

J. K. Kennedy, city prosecutor, asked for a stated case for argument in the Court of Appeal on the point of law involved. The request was granted.

FIRE AT ALBERNI.

Alberni, June 15.—There was an alarm of fire in Alberni the other afternoon and the equipment of the volunteer brigade was brought into use with good effect. The scene of the blaze was an old barn on Margaret street, adjoining a Chinese laundry, north of the Royal Bank building. Soon after the fire was discovered the whole building was in flames and the Chinese laundry was in imminent danger. There was a spontaneous turnout of active young men, and a well-organized fight was immediately begun, E. M. Whyte, chief of the brigade being prominent in the organization. All the fire buckets were brought into use, water was quickly drawn from the nearest wells and thrown on the Chinese building, half a dozen Chinamen being busy in the meantime rescuing the contents of the endangered laundry. The fire was confined to the building in which it originated, and the loss was trifling. The blaze was caused by the lighting of a small rubbish fire inside the barn. Had the flames not been checked the bank building would also have been in danger.

APPEAL PROBABLE.

New Westminster, June 15.—The test case, City of Westminster vs. Ruddick, was settled in the police court by Magistrate Edmonds in favor of the corporation, Ruddick being mulcted in $25 and costs of the prosecution. The case was one taken under the city's trade licensed by-laws, which make it compulsory for a hawker to pay a permit fee when selling goods from door to door. Ruddick had been selling a patent vacuum carpet cleaner, and his modus operandi without a license was decided to be contrary to the by-laws which regulate such trading. An appeal may possibly follow.

BOY DROWNED.

Vancouver, June 15.—A drowning accident occurred at Eburne when Peter Craig, the 15-year-old son of Mr. Craig, a sawyer employed by the Eburne Lumber Company, met his death. He with a number of other lads were playing about on the logs in the river when he fell into the stream and was swept away.

TO SAFEGUARD THE FORESTS.

Nelson, June 15.—W. H. McGregor, one of the three fire commissioners appointed under the recent provincial Act, is now in Nelson and will open an office here. A hundred and twenty men, he says, are now on the forest fire patrol service.

NEW WESTMINSTER ESTIMATES FOR YEAR

Amount to $403,402 for 1911 —Moses B. Cotsworth Submits Another Report

New Westminster, June 15.—The estimates for 1911 were finally passed at the last meeting of the city council. The estimates total $403,402.50. The largest items in the receipts are: Taxes $186,382.50; light, $35,000; water, $65,000; Government grant to schools, $19,320; licences, $15,000; road tax, $2,000; market $2,500; rentals, $8,000; Lulu Island bridge refund, $10,000. The balance is made up of receipts from building permits, police and pound, pilotage fees and sundries. The main items in the expenditure are: Finance charges, $159,891.76; Board of Works, $26,231.57; light department $44,269.18, and schools, $68,269.

Moses B. Cotsworth gave the council an additional report. He says he has sent out surcharge notices totalling $42,053.82 for tax sale balances. There are 89 cases in which he cannot find addresses of defaulters. He said he was willing to do all in his power to help the city "without further charge than your ordinary accruing audit expenses," and said he was prepared to collect accounts he had surcharged.

After some discussion by the council, the report was laid over for a week.

An interesting discussion took place when Sheriff Armstrong addressed the council on behalf of the committee appointed by the R. A. and I. Society. Mr. Armstrong asked for an apology from the council for their failure to attend at the special meeting called by the council to meet the committee. Two aldermen had attended and various explanations were forthcoming from the others. The interesting part of it came when the mayor asked the representative of the R. A. and I. Society why the aldermen on the board of control were not notified of the meeting which appointed the committee. Mr. Armstrong said he was under the impression that the said members had refused to act and promised to bring a letter to this effect. No knowledge of this letter was obtainable in the council, however.

TRAIL BASEBALL CLUB.

Trial, June 15.—Baseball was placed on an organized basis in Trail at a meeting held in the city hall. The following officers were elected for the season: Hon. president, S. G. Blaylock; hon. vice-president's J. H. Schofield, M. P. P., Mayor Weir, P. Stewart and A. J. McNabb; president, J. Buchanan; vice-president, S. Butler; secretary-treasurer, R. Swartz; manager, J. A. MacKinnon.

FIRE CAUSES DAMAGE.

Vernon, June 15.—Fire destroyed the home of Thomas Mann, corner Schubert and Twelfth streets. All the furniture was lost including a sum of cash. There was some difficulty in rescuing the three children of Mr. Mann. The damage amounted to about two thousand dollars.

FATAL QUARREL OVER MONEY.

Stockton, Cal., June 16.—Difficulties over money resulted in the murder here of K. Iida, a Japanese laborer, and the probable fatal injury of K. Taniguchi, the murderer, who, after shooting Iida through the intestines, turned the gun on himself. Iida was shot through the small of the back, the bullet lodging beneath the skin covering of the stomach. He died within an hour. Taniguchi shot himself twice, one bullet entering his left side and the second above the heart coming out at the back.

FALKNER GUILTY ON MOST SERIOUS COUNT

Admits Doing Wrong but Denies Guilt of Defence Charged

The trial of George Falkner continued yesterday afternoon and this morning and went to the jury at noon.

Falkner took the box on his own behalf yesterday afternoon, and placed the blame for his position as an accused man upon the little girl. He was a very Adam. His story was: "She met Larry and I in the park, and said 'Hallo boys.' She did the driving. She told me she wanted to run away and I felt sorry for her. I naturally became attached to her that is in a friendly way, and she appealed to me. Nothing improper ever took place between us. We parted on good terms on the Friday and I took her out again on the Sunday."

In cross examination by H. W. R. Moore the accused denied every allegation contained in the crown case, but admitted taking the girl for three drives. He said he got back the ring. The ring was one of two he had bought for his neices, and the second ring he had lent to another small girl he had met in the Beacon Hill Park. He had not received the second ring back yet and was not acquainted with the parents of the girl who borrowed it.

A good deal of the blame for his position in the dock was thrown by Faulkner on the man known as Larry. His lordship took the witness in hand and asked him, with a touch of sarcasm, whether it was not a fact that the little girl was the tempter and he the innocent victim. According to the story told by accused, his lordship remarked, the girl did everything else. Asked why he had inquired the girl's age he said it was because she had asked him his.

Evidence of character was put in by the defence, the witnesses all declaring that accused was thought highly of in Vancouver business circles. Three of the witnesses testified to his home life, saying he and his wife appeared blissfully happy and lived an ideal and happy life. George A. Hughes was referring to accused's assistance financially to the Y. M. C. A. and Young Ministers association when Mr. Justice Murphy, speaking to Mr. Maclean said, "that is an awful kind of character evidence." The other witnesses for character were, George J. Hammond, Natural Resources Security Co., Ltd.; William J. Twiss, Mutual Life of Canada, Vancouver; Alfred B. Robb, Thos. F. Brunton, (who knew Falkner's wife, and said she was 20 years of age), D. G. McTavish, and Robert K. Lindsay, all brokers or realty men.

For the defence Dr. F. Hall gave medical testimony of a scientific nature.

Before opening the defence Mr. Maclean had one count struck out of the indictment and asked for a dismissal on the ground that the prosecution had not proved the girl was not Faulkner's wife. The latter's request was not allowed when Mr. Moore drew attention to the girl's evidence that Falkner had promised her marriage next August while on the way to Cedar Hill. Mr. Maclean told the jury that Falkner was a young man with a bright future, who found himself in an awkward position as a result of his own good-heartedness and foolishness, and remarked that girls of 16 to-day knew more than men of 40 used to know.

Mr. Maclean made a long and vigorous address to the jury and claimed the girl's story was a false one. He claimed the benefit of the doubt for accused, whom he said had already suffered the punishment of the damned, saying, "Jails are full enough to overflowing without sending there a young man who should have the benefit of the doubt." He concluded by warning the jury of the danger of making a mistake, and that it had been said that it is better that ninety-nine guilty men should be allowed to go rather than one innocent man should be found guilty.

H. W. R. Moore told the jury that the case had been the most unpleasant one he had ever been connected with. Falkner's story that she accosted him, he said, appeared incredulous. The fact that the girl played truant did not brand her as a bad girl.

"We have been told that we have a bright clever business man engaged in a $750,000 business transaction to deal with. In the box he couldn't recall dates even. He is a married man, and a business man, and he spends his time running round with little girls, making them presents of rings. His story that he remained in the rig at the Cedar Hill while the girl went into the bushes to eat her lunch is an unreasonable one. If you find he is lying on some facts you can find him lying on others. Were his doings, on his own showing, those of a high-class business man, taking the girl about in a fatherly way? To acquit him you have to believe all his explanations, and I submit you cannot do it."

His lordship, referring to counts one and four in the indictment, directed the jury that these went together, and if they found him not guilty of rape then he could not be found guilty of indecent assault.

"You have seen the man and you have seen the little girl," he said. "It is for you to say whether an act, as charged, took place. In deciding the case it is on questions of fact, and the prisoner is entitled to the benefit of a reasonable doubt. There is probably no greater assistance to you than the manner in which the man conducts himself in the box.

"If you find the girl did not use all her strength in resistance and was subject to persuasion, then you cannot find him guilty of rape. No such assault could take place with an innocent girl without much struggling. It is a characteristic of innocent girls to confide in their mothers; but that does not always happen of course. There is another charge, that of illicit intercourse with a girl 14 to 16 years of age. This child's age is admitted within the years stated. If you come to the conclusion that the act was committed accused is to be convicted, unless it is shown that the girl was not of chaste character.

"It has been suggested that accused is guilty of folly and been already punished. You have nothing to do with that. While it is a serious thing that an innocent man should go to jail, it is a more serious thing that your beautiful park in Victoria should be turned into the haunt of the seducer. Accused's actions, if you believe them, were premeditated. You saw the child. You are entitled to consider the impression of age made on a man. Accused told me he asked the girl her age, and she replied sixteen years. His explanation is that she first asked him his age. You have to consider further that he is a man 23 years of age, of great business capacity, and very high mentality. He is not uneducated, he comes from the higher walks of life. He says he was influenced by his friend. One could hardly gather from the evidence of his business associates that he could be easily influenced. He says the girl arranged the drive and that she kissed him. It is for you to say if that is likely.

"The law in Canada says that a girl of 14 is without protection if she is of unchaste character. You must regard the evidence of both sides on this question. The young man called this morning as to incidents said to have taken place at Saanich claimed criminal protection. That was an extraordinary thing to my mind. He is said to have done it, under legal advice. What he claimed was, that if he made any statement incriminating himself he could not be punished. It is only fair to accused to say that this throws an extraordinary aspect on the youth's behavior. As I told you, the burden of proving the previous unchastity of the child rests on the defence. You have to have regard to human nature. Now, what is to be expected of a boy 19 and a girl 14, engaged to be married, spending the night together in a barn. The boy may have had a high sense of honor but it would be a test I would be very loth to put any one to, no matter how high his morals and his honor. However, it may be that nothing occurred in the barn. If you believe the child, that these two were lying in such close proximity, what might not happen? You have to judge and if you are convinced that an immorality happened there, then you pay no attention to what may have happened at Cedar Hill."

SUCCESSFUL PRESENTATION.

SECOND WHALER LAUNCHED.

Moran Slides Into Water at Seattle as Gracefully as a Bird.

Seattle, June 16.—As gracefully as a bird, the staunch steam whaler Moran, just built at the Moran Co.'s yards, slid down the ways shortly after 7 o'clock last evening and took her first dip in the waters of Elliott bay.

The Moran is a sister vessel to the Paterson, which was lauhched last Saturday. She was built for the Canadian Northern Pacific Fisheries Company of Victoria, of which Dr. L. Rissmuller of Victoria, B. C., is the head. She is an oil burner vessel with a large cruising radius and will be able to follow schools of whales for a long distance. The vessel is 96 feet long with an 18-foot beam and has a depth of 11.6 feet.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight.

Two beautifully dressed women entered into a discussion of their household cares and worries. Finally, when the subject of jellies was reached, one said to the other: "Yes, we tried some crab apples this year, but the stuff wouldn't jell, and we had to give it to the Salvation Army."

Suitor—"If you refuse me I shall never love another." Suited—"Does that hold good if I accept you?"

SIR JAMES BARR RAPS PHYSICIANS

Britain's Foremost Medico and Specialist Tells How Doctors Disagree

Sir James Barr, one of England's distinguished physicians, in an address to the Canadian Medical Association at Montreal, took issue with a famous Canadian physician on the question of tuberculosis and was satirical at the expense of surgeons. "Preventive Medicine the Medicine of the Future," was the subject of the address.

Surgeons, he said, lived largely on the failures of physicians and general practitioners and admired intensely their worth and envied their fees, which were, like the falls of Niagara, magnificent. He advised surgeons to make hay while the sun shone for fear that the millenium should arrive sooner than they expected.

With reference to tuberculosis, Sir James instanced a recent lecture given in Dublin by Dr. Osler, who said there: "And lastly for our great consolation we know that the disease is not hereditary and for this let us be thankful." Sir James Barr retorted: "We know nothing of the kind, although we are constantly having it dinned into our ears by medical men who ought to know better."

Notwithstanding the inevitable technicalities of the subject the lecturer illumined it with shafts of sparkling wit and brilliant satire convulsing a large audience into laughter, as he humorously soliloquized on the ills that human flesh is heir to. Dealing in practical advice, national in its import, he cautioned Canadians not to make their shores a dumping ground for the rubbish of Europe. Referring to Ireland, the land of his birth, Sir James said, "If you abolish the tubercle bacillus in Ireland, then it will certainly become a question of 'God save Ireland.'" No vaccine was able, according to the lecturer, to counteract the effects.

The lecturer seemed to revel in the fact that Dr. George E. Armstrong, the chairman, and Dean Shepherd, each noted surgeons, were on the platform, and "you do not find a surgeon foolish enough to contrast the fashionable disease appendicitis," he said, and added "that if people were not so fond of keeping a cesspool in their interior the bacillus coli and other aganism would not become virulent, and appendicitis would be a comparatively rare disease. He capped the utterance by remarking that a lady of a religious turn of mind once told him that she quite agreed with him on that point "as a man is a veritable sink of iniquity."

Dealing with the question of old age the last stage of human existence, he remarked some people lived too long for their reputation's sake. So frankly was his jesting and so original in its application that the Toronto professor who seconded the vote of thanks to him, described the lecturer as the Bernard Shaw of medicine.

Sir James, who is consulting physician to the Royal Infirmary, Liverpool, underlined his speech by saying that the great advances of medical science had been of enormous advantage to individuals and had enabled innumerable persons to live who would otherwise have succumbed to the stress of circumstances, but how far that had been an advantage to the evolution of the human race as a whole was a disputable point. He claimed on behalf of the medical profession that whether they had always been right or not they had ever been actuated by a spirit of altruism. The process of vicarious charity at the expense of the medical profession had gradually so grown that in the present day at least a fourth of the population of England receives free medical advice. The reason only such a large proportion of the human race was being pauperized was because an inferior race was being produced. Professor Arthur Thomson had said that what children usually died of was their parents, and what a nation died of was lack of men. In future medical men must not be content with treating the diseases of the community, but must also point out the lines along which the nation was to be improved by encouraging the multiplication of the fit and controlling the increase of the unfit. The maintenance of health was much more important than the treatment of disease. Continuing, he stated:

"'Prevention is better than cure,' is one of those half-truths which readily command public acceptance as axioms which cannot be gainsaid; but it is not nature's method, and medical men are incessantly talking about following the laws of nature. The prevention of disease is very important to the individual, but when it enables undesirables to go on generation after generation propagating their species it can be of no advantage to the race. In an address on preventive medicine which I gave four years ago I stated that if the public were only alive to their own interests they would pay medical men liberally for directing them in the paths of truth and in the ways of health, rather than for treating their diseases. If the money which is spent in the treatment of disease were devoted to the preservation of health, our huge hospitals would not be half filled, purveyors of synthetic remedies and artificial foods might find a suitable place in a home for the destitute, the necessity for surgeons and specialists would largely disappear, and physicians would be fully occupied in advising their clientele on the preservation of health and in looking after the aged. I am afraid we are still a long way off those halcyon days when our hospital buildings will be pointed out as relics of a decadent age; but still we should at least aim at transmitting high ideals to our successors. We can best attain those ideals by improving the stock; no environment will ever produce a genius."

Speaking to Canadians particularly, he remarked they had a young country, a virgin soil, and they should see it was peopled by a vigorous and intellectual race, and they should shut out all degenerate foreigners as rigidly as they would a mad dog, a piece of advice which drew forth applause.

Dealing with tuberculosis, the lecturer said:

Dr. Osler, in a recent lecture in Dublin on the fight against tuberculosis, said, "And, lastly, for our great consolation, we know that the disease is not hereditary, and for this let us be thankful." We know nothing of the kind, although we are constantly having it dinned into our ears by medical men who ought to know better. We know that the tubercle bacillis, which is a necessary element in the production of tuberculosis, is not transmitted in the germ plasma, but the long, narrow, flat chest, delicate lungs and feeble resisting power to the tubercle bacillus and to many other germs are undoubtedly inherited, just as much so as the shape of your nose or the color of your hair. Medical men who are shutting their eyes to the truth, and encouraging matrimony and the propagation of the species by mental and physical weaklings are incurring a fearful racial responsibility, and their action should be condemned in no uncertain language.

During the past fifty years there had been a steady decline in tuberculosis in England and Scotland, but in Ireland it had remained stationary. On the other hand, during the same period, the insane population of England and Wales had increased 250 per cent., while the whole population had only increased 81.6 per cent., while in Ireland, with a falling population, the increase had been about 100 per cent.

The lecturer did not know how matters stood in Canada, but he advised Canadians, while showing all kindness to the insane and mentally defective, not to allow them to indulge in the pastime of procreation and to give them clearly to understand that with them their breed must come to an end. Curing forms of insanity, imbecility and idiocy would never be done by maudlin sentimentality.

Sir James had much to say about pneumonia, and said it was startling to know there was a considerable increase in the death rate from it. Alcohol is a strong predisposing factor to pneumonia, because it immeasurably lowered the resisting power of the individual and increased the mortality rate. Another common cause of the high mortality from pneumonia arose from the lack of proper treatment, often owing to the fact that some medical men took two or three days to diagnose the disease, and then called it congestion of the lungs, treating it carelessly as a matter of no great importance for fear of frightening the patient until the unfortunate individual was too ill to be frightened by anything.

The learned lecturer then dealt with the nature and prevention of bronchitis, pleurisy, smallpox, typhus and enteric fever, rheumatism, erysipelas, diseases of the blood vessels, heart and kidneys. The last mentioned were on the increase, largely due to greater wear and tear, more worry and anxiety in life. Dealing with this form of trouble, in which Sir James is a noted specialist, he said:

One often hears patients say that they have never been ill a day in their lives, when an examination of the heart, kidneys, and blood vessels shows disease of fifteen to twenty years' standing, and the tenure of life reduced to a few years at most, and yet many of these conditions were preventable. Of course, many a man may prefer to lead a very active and short, but to him enjoyable, life rather than drag it out to an inordinate length. It is only with healthy blood vessels that any one can hope to retain his mental and bodily vigor, and expect to attain to a green old age. I know that there is another view of life, and that many men do not consider old age desirable. When man has ceased to be a productive agent, intellectually or physically, they look upon him as a mere cumberer of the ground—an obstacle in the path of progress which should be removed.

Concluding his address, Sir James Barr said he was not now so much concerned with the prolongation of life as with the preservation of health. They, as medical men, were not concerned with any useless attainments of longevity, but with the prolongation and efficiency of life. When a life ceased to be efficient, it could retire with obscurity, be withdrawn from circulation, or receive an old age pension. Commenting on Paul Bert's dictum that the aged deserved congratulations, ease and consideration, but that the prolongation of their lives did not demand any special solicitude from society, he remarked that if he had lived longer he would have modified his opinion.

NORMANDY'S CELEBRATIONS.

Paris, June 16.—Many tourists from all over the world have joined the pilgrimage of visitors to Normandy to witness the elaborate celebrations in honor of the one thousandth anniversary of the founding of the Duchy of Normandy. The fetes commemorating the historic event begin this week and will continue through the greater part of the summer. A series of elaborate pageants will be given illustrating the history of Normandy and extolling the lives and works of Corneilles Malherbe, Flaubert and other celebrated Normans. The city of Rouen is to be the scene of the principal festivities, though every town of Normandy will share in the celebration.

FUTURE MARKETS OF CANADA.

"In ten years we will have 12,000,000 people; in ten more sixteen to seventeen millions, and in ten more over 30,000,000 people in Canada. When we have even 17,000,000 we will produce 700,000,000 to 800,000,000 bushels of wheat. The English market cannot consume more than half this. Let us clinch a bargain at once for a market double the population of England, and in ten years four times the population; and on the day, mentioned a population of 250 to 300 millions, the best importing market in the world, the United States."—Hon. MODERN PROBLEM OF MORMON HIERARCHY

Analysis of History, Creed and Arguments in Defence of Troublous Cult

Are the Mormons sincere in their repeated declarations that polygamy has ceased in Utah and is discountenanced by the church of the Latter Day Saints? This is the question discussed by the Montreal Herald in the "Third Column."

The question is of some importance to Canada where a Mormon settlement exists, conducted on the fertile plains of southern Alberta on principles against which there has been no word of reproach by neighboring communities, and it is reported that there is a mission in Montreal. It is interesting on account of the public indignation that has been aroused in England, owing to the success of the Mormon missionaries there in proselytizing young women who are alleged to be lured away to Utah for purposes that under English law are regarded as immoral, to bring the situation briefly under review.

The Mormon missionaries contend that they have been unjustly attacked, and their purposes, which are really benevolent and philanthropic, misrepresented. One fact that is considered significant as bearing on these pretences of the missionaries is that the comely maidens who are induced to leave their homes for Utah, never return to their friends again with an account of how it has fared with them.

Persons who have lived in Utah and have broken away from the Mormon church, declare polygamy flourishes as luxuriantly as ever in the Mormon states, but the missionaries denounce these as apostates, and brand their stories as falsehoods.

It may be judged therefore how difficult it is to arrive at the truth, without going to Utah to see for oneself. Even Joseph F. Smith, the president of the Mormon church, contradicts his own signed statement on the subject.

On the 29th of Aprill last, President Smith sent to the London Times, in view of the indignation aroused over the Mormon proselytizing of English maidens a signed cablegram from Salt Lake City, containing the following: "With a view to counteract the misrepresentations now being made in England and in the hope to establish the truth, I declare that, during the nine years of my presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, no man in the church having one wife has been permitted to take to himself another. No one in authority in the church has been permitted to perform such a marriage under pain of being excommunicated from the church. No person in any land is invited to become a member of the church with the expectation of living in any other marriage state than obtains in all Christian countries; but all persons are invited only to join us as brothers in Jesus Christ and share the fulness of grace vouchsafed to us as we believe in revelations."

On May 27, less than a month after dispatching the foregoing, President Smith sent a signed telegram to the New York World containing this:

"We believe in being honest, true, chaste, benevolent, virtuous and in doing good to all men. We believe in the home and that it must be kept pure. Marriage with us is a covenant entered into for all time and for all eternity. We are true to our wives and steadfast in our fidelity to them and to our children.

"For myself—and it may sound strangely to you—that means that I believe in being true to five wives, who are loving, loyal, contented and happy mothers. They have been my wives for from over 27 years to more than 40 years. They have looked up to and been true to me through all these years, and I have held my love and duty to them above all things else; my love for them, my conscience and my manhood would not allow it to be otherwise."

President Smith further declares: "We are seeking to purge Utah of the iniquitous white slave traffic." Again: "The Latter Day Saints are doing in England only what they have done there for the last 74 years—preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ."

Investigations which have been made into Morman life have brought forth some new revelations of a curious character. The existence of polygamy on a large scale has been declared by investigators to be beyond question. Fresh light has been thrown on the ways of Mormon life. The "polygamous child" is the most striking incident of Mormonism. The law puts him under the bar sinister and half the members of the church between the ages of 20 and 30 come legally within that classification. But those who imagine the "polygamous child" to be a pathetic figure are widely mistaken. The bar sinister means nothing to a Mormon, when it is set over against obedience to a dogmas of his church. The polygamous child is given all the consideration that is due to a child of a husband who has only one wife.

In the everyday routine, half-brothers become "cousins." The child of one wife calls another wife than his own mother "aunt." The wives themselves, and often the husband, make use of the same description. "Aunt Mary" will be the first wife, "Aunt Amelia" the second and "Aunt Clara" the third. As the family roll grows and children themselves marry, it will sometimes happen that wives of the second generation will bear the same given names as those of the first. A common device in such case is to call the younger woman "Mary Jo," meaning that she is Mary, the wife of the son Joseph, nor Mary, the wife of the father, Hyrum.

It is only in the rarest instances that any but the best of feeling exists among the various families of a polygamist. Gatherings at which all the wives and all the children are present are common.

Wives exchange visits with wives exactly as they would exchange visits with relatives by blood. Talks with more than a dozen plural wives failed to bring out a single suggestion of jealousy. More than that, it failed to bring out a single suggestion of unhappiness over "sharing" a husband with another or with others.

NAVY YARD CASES SET GOING TO-DAY

SPRATT AND HOUSTON FACE THE STARTER TOGETHER

Customs Collector Newbury Leads Off for the Prosecution —An Uneventful Opening

After many delays the Admiralty case alleging the unlawful possession of naval goods, consisting of sixteen drums of paint, 300 pounds of rubber, and forty boxes of candles, aggregating in value $1,082, against C. J. V. Spratt and William Houstan, of the Victoria Machinery Depot, was opened to-day in the police court. The occasion was responsible for an unusual array of legal luminaries being present. Hon. C. E. Pooley, K. C., and J. A. Aikman represented the crown, prosecuting through Commander Vivian of the imperial navy; Stuart Henderson represented Houston and W. J. Taylor, K. C., appeared on behalf of Spratt; while W. H. Langley held a watching brief for the Dominion government. Commander Vivian, of the Shearwater and Lieut.-Commander Hodgson, of the Egeria, were also present.

The case, or rather the preliminary hearing, opened with a series of skirmishes as to who should be allowed to remain in court during the hearing of the evidence. The defending counsel earnestly urged that Commander Vivian be excluded. The prosecution disagreed and finally it was settled that the commander would leave during the evidence of Bullock and vice versa.

Magistrate Jay intimated that the case would be tried by indictment but formulated the customary question for the defenders, who reserved the right of reply until after the evidence for the prosecution is in.

Leading council for the crown, Hon. C. E. Pooley, then placed his first witness in the box, J. C. Newbury, the collector of customs, who played a prominent part in the events leading up to the arrest of the prisoners. Mr. Newbury stated that acting on information which had been supplied him he sent two or three officers down to the Victoria Machinery Depot to seize certain goods which he knew to be there. He did not go himself and could not therefore give legal evidence as to what took place there. Mr. Taylor objecting to his being impaled for what he did not know.

After the seizure was made he saw Spratt personally and had a talk with him about the matter. In the words of the witness: "Mr. Spratt thought it advisable to come and see me. He came to try and explain the matter, which, however, he did not do to my satisfaction. He made a good many statements in reference to the goods but they were not of great importance. I alleged that the goods had not paid duty, but I did not go further than that. I do not think it within my province to allege theft. I merely proceeded on the lines laid down in the act."

"Mr. Spratt tried to argue me from my position by suggesting that the goods had or might easily have paid duty. I demanded to know where he got the goods, and he replied that he got them from Mr. Day, of Esquimalt. He did not like the unceremonious way in which he had entered his premises and made a search of them for the goods. He thought it was ultra vires, and said so. Mr. Spratt practically admitted that they were naval goods. At any rate he did not deny it. There was nothing on the customs records to lead me to believe that they had just come in. He, however, said he had bought and paid for them and wanted to know what business it was of mine."

Later on Houston, accompanied by Stuart Henderson, called upon witness and talked the matter over. Witness demanded the full value of the goods plus the duty, which he based upon the receipts and vouchers in the possession of the prisoners.

Prosecuting counsel endeavored to find out from witness who signed the cheques of the Machinery Company, and Mr. Taylor objected, saying that the signature was part of the contents of an article not on exhibit. The point raised a pithy little discussion as to what was the material essence of a cheque, the amount or the signature.

Hon. C. E. Pooley contended that it was the amount. The difference between $1 and $1,000 was surely the material element in a cheque. Mr. Taylor, however, contended that it was the signature which gave the difference in value any significance, and although the question was allowed, he seemed to have made a moral hit.

On receipt of the money the goods were sent back to the depot, Collector Newbury said, and only samples were kept by the customs department for reference. Further examined, he stated that Mr. Spratt had endeavored to explain to him that the goods which had come into his possession might easily have been sold in small quantities. Sales of such goods were not uncommon, but witness did not think it usual.

Under a clever cross-examination conducted by Mr. Taylor much of the examination-in-chief was thrust aside. Mr. Taylor learned from the witness that he had never actually seen the consignment alleged to have been found in the premises of the company. For all he knew the representative samples which were exhibited in court were what he had seen and might represent all that was actually seized for all he knew.

In regard to the payment of the value plus the duty, $1,000, which in his examination-in-chief he had termed a fine, he now stated that it was not a fine. It was the value of the goods plus the duty. Mr. Taylor also suggested that the matter, which had been referred to Ottawa, was now in abeyance until August, until which time the prisoners had to clear themselves.

Defending counsel then demanded the name of the informer upon whose story the initial action was taken. Witness was averse to telling and wanted to know if he must. It certainly was not a practice. Counsel did not know of any privilege which entitled him to refrain so at last the witness stated what of course everybody know, that Bullock was the informer.

Mr. Taylor's cross-examination then took the line of showing the possibility of the goods found in the possession of the accused being sold at the sales of naval goods which were held periodically. He claimed that such sales were not infrequent and that all sorts of junk were sold at them. Witness admitted that sales were held about once a year for the last fifteen years.

Defending counsel then endeavored to show that there was no method of checking the quantities sold. He suggested that 700 lbs. might be sold for 400 and so on. The packages were never weighed afterwards, to his knowledge. Witness admitted that the goods were not weighed but he contended that there was a customs officer present at every sale of the kind, and that it would be impossible to obtain possession of such goods that had not paid duty without smuggling or stealing them.

This view led Mr. Taylor to suggest a hypothetical case in which a purchaser innocently becomes the possessor of 70 lbs. instead of 400 lbs. which he paid for. Would witness allege that the purchaser had been guilty of smuggling. While he would not subscribe to an affirmative opinion on the point witness did not think it reasonable to suppose that such a thing would occur, whereupon counsel asked him if mistakes never occurred in the customs department, to which query he received the reply that they sometimes did.

Questioned particularly about the rubber witness was sure that it was never sold. It was of a peculiar brand. Mr. Taylor asked of it could not be received from England and witness admitted that it might. He was not an expert in rubber. Of the paint cans he did not know anything in particular.

Customs Appraiser Winsby was the next witness for the crown. After going over the evidence of the previous witness he came to the candles which the party of searchers failed to locate on their initial trip of discovery. He admitted that Mr. Houston, when challenged, gave him all the assistance possible in looking for the goods alleged to have been evading duty. They did not find the candles, but he (the witness) knew they must be there as it was impossible to have used so many.

"Yes," interrupted Mr. Taylor, caustically, "you are going to have them guilty anyway." (Laughter.)

The case is in progress.

FALKNER GUILTY ON MOST SERIOUS COUNT

The jury returned at a quarter to 2 with a verdict of guilty on the most serious count, that of rape. Asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him Falkner said:

"I admit I have done wrong. I am sorry for what I have done. I am not guilty of the charge."

The Sentence.

H. A. Maclean, K. C., made a plea for mercy, saying the jury had been carried away by their feelings but the judge did not have to take an aggravated view of the case.

H. W. R. Moore, crown prosecutor, stated that he had been asked by the girl's friends to say that while public policy had to be preserved they were not requesting a vindictive sentence.

"I am extremely sorry for you, Falkner," said his lordship, addressing the prisoner. "The jury have found you guilty for an offence, the maximum punishment for which is death. I sentence you to imprisonment for seven years in the provincial penitentiary."

The prisoner was then removed and this closed the business of one of the heaviest assizes held in Victoria for a long time.

SENIOR BASEBALL.

The senior amateur ball teams will play a double-header to-morrow afternoon either at the Royal Athletic park or at Oak Bay, for although the ball players claim they have secured the grounds, the lacrosse men say they are going to play there, and, as it is manifestly impossible for three games to take place in the one afternoon, at the same place, chances are good for a tidy little row at the park.

No matter where they play the Hills and Giants will take the field at 2 o'clock and the Bays and Prides at 4. The Hills will line up as follows: Scott, p.; Ed. Steele, p.; Fowler, 1b.; W. Gravelin, 2b.; Russell, 3b.; McDougall, s.s.; Brown, l.f.; Cottel, c.f.; and T. Gravelin, r.f.

The other teams will line up: Prides—Robertson, Holness, Malcolm, Moore, Brewster, Moyer, T. George, Medina and Clark. Giants—Whyte, Winsby, Baines, McDiarmid, Brown, Williams, Richmond, McIlmoyle and Peden. Bays—Tuson, Steenson, Plumber, R. Shanks, Sl. Shanks, McQuade, Baker, Potts and Dunaway.

LAWN BOWLING TO-MORROW.

Greens of Victoria Tennis Club Now Open for Play.

Devotees of the above (sometimes) placid pastime connected with the lawn tennis club are somewhat late in getting into the field, and are now anxious to recover lost ground. Play will commence to-morrow afternoon. The management request all who can possibly attend to do so.

WORK ON THE MAINE.

Havana, June 16.—A greatly increased area of the wreck of the battleship Maine was exposed to view to-day when the water level within the cofferdam had been lowered to a total of 10½ feet below normal.

Everywhere the ironwork exposed is not shattered by the explosion, had been so corroded as to be mere shells, making it highly probable that the plan to repair and float any part of the ship must be abandoned.

PREDICTS PASSAGE OF RECIPROCITY BILL

Chairman of Finance Committee Says Sixty Senators Will Vote for Measure

Washington, D. C., June 16.—Chairman Penrose of the senate committee in conference with President Taft today confirmed the report that sixty senators are expected to vote for reciprocity and predicted that within two weeks a day for a vote would be agreed on. He gave the president a detailed report of the situation in the senate and declared the bill would be passed without amendment. Later Mr. Penrose issued a formal statement in which he said:

A careful canvass of the senate shows that sixty members or substantially two-thirds of the senate are in favor of the reciprocity bill and more than that number will be opposed to the Root amendment. The senate will hold daily sessions from now on and during the next two weeks great progress ought to be made toward reaching a final vote on the measure. The bill will be passed at an early date without amendment. It would be well if it could be passed before the Canadian parliament re-assembles in the latter part of July.

The free list bill opens up a wide range of tariff discussion and the finance committee is in receipt of numerous requests from all over the country asking for hearings on the numerous schedules of that bill. As no hearings on the bill were given by the house committee, it is only reasonable that opportunity should be permitted the various manufacturing interests concerned to present their statements to the senate committee and at as early a date as possible the committee will hold such hearings so far as will be practicable between the long and continuous sessions of the senate to be devoted to the reciprocity bill, the early passage of which is the first consideration of the present session.

Canadian reciprocity passed into its second stage before the senate to-day, when the bill was formally taken up for adoption. The only committee amendment is the one offered by Senator Root. Chairman Penrose said the friends of reciprocity would be willing to vote without debate. The senate adjourned till Monday without a further debate on the bill.

STRIKE AT TACOMA.

Tacoma, Wash., June 16.—Sixty non-union warehouse men employed by the Milwaukee Railroad walked out this afternoon because of the company's refusal to pay them at the rate of 30 cents an hour. They have been receiving 25 cents. As a result of the strike, the discharging of cargo of the Tacoma Maru of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha line which arrived in port this afternoon, came to an abrupt halt. The men on strike always have refused to consider joining a union.

GIVEN TEN YEARS.

San Francisco, Cal., June 16.—Credit for the heaviest sentence ever passed here in the women's slave law went to Superior Judge Lawlor this morning when Haruso Nitta, a Japanese, received ten years in the Folsom penitentiary. Nitta had a "photographic marriage" performed in Japan with a woman named Finoye. On her arrival here the ceremony was repeated in accordance with the local laws. Nitta then sold the girl into slavery for $250.

NEW CHIEF TAKES OFFICE.

San Francisco, Cal., June 16.—D. A. White took possession of the office of chief of police quietly this morning following the resignation of the rival claimant of the office, John F. Seymour. There was none of the usual demonstrations. Only two police captains called to pay their respects and only one floral tribute was sent. Chief White announced that he will make no changes in the administration of his offices for some months yet.

The total cost of the world's armament for 1910 was $1,651,000,000.

LORD ROBERTS INSPECTS CANADIANS

Lord Kitchener Will Review Troops on Monday—Outings for Coronation Contingent

London, June 16.—Lord Roberts inspected the Canadian coronation contingent to-day. Lord Kitchener will inspect them on Monday.

The Canadians are camped in a close company with 1,300 odd soldiers from all parts of the Empire, from the back blocks of Australia, the wilds of Rhodesia, the sweet-scented island of Ceylon, Hong Kong, British Guianea, Barbadoes, Trinidad and Malta.

The men live under military rule, but with a kindly latitude which the time of festivity and the overwhelming London hospitality demands. Reveille sounds at 6 o'clock, two hours later breakfast is served of fish, bacon and eggs, ham, bread and butter, tea and coffee. Dinner with a pint of beer to every man who likes, comparatively few of the Canadians seem to, is served at 1 o'clock, and comprises various joints and many vegetables, cheese, bread and butter. For tea at 5 o'clock the men have supplies similar to those at breakfast. The food is brought in fresh every day and cooked in camp.

The troops undergo a course of drill every day, and on Sunday they march through the streets to service at St. Paul's cathedral, Westminster Roman Catholic cathedral; and at places of worship belonging to other denominations. During the day there are brake rides to the sights of London, double journeys at single fares on the railways and free tickets to theatres and places of entertainment in abundance.

Saturday's programme includes a trip to Windsor and the great aviation grounds at Brooklands. On Monday the Crystal Palace will be visited and Newbury races are to be taken in on Tuesday. There is a river trip to Gravesend Wednesday and a visit to Woolwich, and Thursday the coronation.

A number of the officers can be accommodated in Westminster Abbey, but the whole contingent are delighted to learn that they are expected to lead in the King's progress through the metropolis.

WILL CRUSH MOVEMENT.

Lisbon, June 16.—The government's efforts to crush the reported Royalist movements continue.

To-day Dr. Abel Compos, a retired general of the Portuguese army, and Salbanha Gama, the Miguelist leader, were arrested charged with conspiracy against the Republic.

Madrid, June 16.—Portugal has formally requested Spain to take measures to put an end to the conspiracies against Portugal, hatched in this country by Portuguese refugees. As a consequence this government, it is reported, has ordered the arrest of Captain Counceire and Commander Chagas, leaders of the Royalists.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 16.—J. A. Barth, aged 25, accountant at the Imperial Bank, shot himself in the head this morning at Ramsay's boarding house. Barth had attended to his duties at the bank up to last night and did not appear this morning. He is in a dying condition. Barth came to the Soo from Toronto a year ago.

FINDING NOT UNANIMOUS.

El Paso, Tex., June 16.—The international arbitration court which has been sitting in the so-called Chamizal case in El Paso to decide the ownership of a million dollars worth of property in the southern part of El Paso, yesterday rendered its decision, which is a compromise. The decision gives Mexico part of the land in question and El Paso part of it. Both the United States and Mexico dissent.

In the fiscal year which ended March 31, $528,857 was paid in bounties on wire rods. The bounties on pig iron expired in December, and up to that time payments totalled $20,433 and on steel $450,454.

REBELS REFUSE TO LAY DOWN ARMS

Reported to Have Taken Town in Mexico—Insurgents at Mazatlan Restless

Mexico City, June 16.—From four widely separated points in the rebublic news was received of disturbances of a revolutionary character. This information has served to embarrass the federal government. At the National palace the importance of the events was minimized, but there appeared to be no doubt that the disturbances reflect a spirit of unrest and the return of Madero will be welcomed. It is thought that he will be able to assist materially in pacifying the disaffected elements.

The disorders reported were in the states of Tabasco, Jalisco, Vera Cruz and Mexico. There appears to be no connection between them whatever.

The trouble in the state of Jalisco was due to dissatisfaction on the part of the Indians living near Lake Chapale. It is a minor anti-foreign movement directed against German and American farmers. The Indians in 1818 threatened to expel the foreigners and resume control of the lands held by their forbears before being subdued by the Spaniards. Certain of the foreigners were notified Tuesday by a body of fifty armed men that they would be given three days to vacate their property, and that if they remained at the end of that time they would be driven out by force. Alarmed by this threat, a few of the farmers have sent their families to Ocotlan, where they will remain pending developments.

The disturbance in the state of Vera Cruz was occasioned by a small body of insurrectos who declined to give up their arms and return to their homes. They are reported to have taken possession of Acuayucan, a small village close to the southern border. No casualties are reported. The federal government has issued orders to the former rebel leader Tapia to proceed against them.

In the state of Tabasco no active disturbance was reported. There a plot of revolutionary character was discovered in the town of Comalaco. Prisoners declared that they had been asked to join in a new movement against the government. The local authorities are in control of the situation.

Declaring that neither he nor his men were satisfied with the choice of governor in the state of Mexico, Vera, a rebel leader who is said to have in his command more than 1,000 men, has boasted that he will lead his force upon Toluca, the state capital, and reorganize the state government to his own liking.

It also represented that 500 insurrectos who were recently paid off in Mazatlan have assumed a hostile attitude toward the established authority and are preparing to continue fighting.

Copies of the official call for the holding of primaries on October 1 for a general presidential election on October 5 were posted in the federal districts yesterday.

With a view to abolishing the system of peonage existing in the state of Yucatan, a committee of planters arrived here to discuss conditions with officials of the interior department.

Two Americans Killed.

Washington, D. C., June 16. — Two Americans, Dr. Foster and Patrick Glennon, have been killed in Alamo, Mexico, and Mr. Sawdat, the American vice-consul at Ensenada, in reporting the fact to the state department, adds that there is dangerous turbulence at Ensenada.

The vice-consul says the Mexicans causing the trouble were to a great extent recruited in the United States, some being reported to be naturalized American citizens.

The state department has reminded the Mexican government that some time ago it gave permission for Mexican troops to cross American territory with a view to the restoration of peace and order in Lower California and that it is now depending on Mexico to make these outrages impossible.

The state department announced officially yesterday that it has been assured that the Chinese government never contemplated the dispatch of a warship to Mexico to assist in the collection of indemnity for the killing of several hundred Chinese by Mexican insurgents during the revolution. It is stated that possibly a Chinese warship participating in the coronation celebration at London may pay a ceremonial visit to Mexican and American waters on the return voyage, but this would be entirely disconnected from the preference of any indemnity claims.

AGAINST RECIPROCITY.

Overthrow of Monopolies, Forces Trusts Into Antagonism.

It was brought out at a hearing before the United States Senate Finance committee through the cross-examination of a witness by Senator Stone of Missouri, that the reciprocity treaty has four powerful enemies. This quartette consists of the International Paper Company, the National Lumber Trust, and the American Protective Tariff League, all of which are carrying on a vigorous campaign against the treaty. It is not surprising that the Lumber Trust, and the paper combination both of which are anxious to maintain prices permanently at the top point, should be uncompromisingly hostile to any commercial arrangement with Canada by which their present monopoly would be broken. They see in a letting down of the tariff bars a drop in prices which their combination would be powerless to prevent. The interests which would be benefitted by the overthrow of the monopoly exceed many times in importance and financial magnitude these interests which are behind the paper and lumber trusts.

It is curious to note how the same parties may be arrayed on different sides according to the tariff schedules which are under consideration. The manufacturers, for instance, desire free hides but do not want free shoes. Woollen manufacturers are unanimous for free wool, but have no stomach for free woollens. The paper and woollen combinations, however, are not divided on any tariff issue, but are for high duties all along the line.—The American Banker.

THE WRECKED MAINE.

Damage to Hull Greater Than Was Supposed.

Havana, June 16.—That the shattering of the hull of the battleship Maine is evidently far greater than supposed, was revealed yesterday afternoon as a result of a superficial observation made possible by the lowering of the water level in the cofferdam, a total depth of seven feet. On account of this unforeseen revelation of the character of the explosion which sent the battleship to the bottom of the harbor, all plans heretofore proposed for dealing with the ultimate removal of the hulk have become merely conjectural until much more water has been pumped out.

As the water receded yesterday every successive foot revealed worse and worse conditions in that portion of the hull forward of amidships which was subjected to the main force of the explosion. The bows section is still nearly 20 feet below the surface, and here, it is believed, the destruction will be found to have been even more complete.

Col. Black, of the engineering corps, said that he had reasonable expectation of lowering the water a total depth of 18 or 20 feet within three or four days, which would render possible a fairly complete exploration of all portions of the ship where men were likely to have been on the night of the disastrous explosion.

CHINA WORLD MENACE.

Chicago, June 16.—China is a perpetual menace to the health of the world, according to Dr. M. R. Edwards, head of the branch of the medical school of Harvard University, which is being established in Shanghai to combat disease. Dr. Edwards arrived here yesterday from his trip through China to study conditions.

"Every ship which sails from a Chinese port is a possible carrier of cholera, bubonic plague and even leprosy, to the outside world," said Dr. Edwards. "China has all the diseases of America and Europe, and many others. Against them it has no adequate medical protection. The country is only beginning to awaken to the necessity of modern medicine. When I made my trip of investigation I found scarcely more than 25 well trained native physicians.

"The situation there is a world menace. Three years ago bubonic plague was brought to our Pacific Coast by ships from China; last winter Asiatic cholera was carried to Hawaii, and now a little understood Chinese disease is epidemic on the western coast. The establishing of the Harvard school in Shanghai is the beginning of a world-wide movement for the betterment of health conditions in China."
